CITY DETECTIVE ADMITS PART IN ACCEPTING BRIBE FROM SALOON MAN

Herbert F. Lampe, Member of Gambling Squad, Says
 He Took $250 From Max
 Kannapell at His Request to Try to "Fix It" With Two Federal Dry Agents.

SAYS HE ACTED AS FRIEND OF KANNAPELL

Asserts He Intended to Keep Money Few Days and Return It, Reporting It Was Refused but Everything Was All Right.

Why he accepted $270 from a saloon keeper following a raid of Federal prohibition enforcement agents
 Monday was related in a statement
 today to Chief of Detectives Hoag-
 land by Detective Herbert F. Lampe, member of the gambling squad.

Lampe admits he is the city detective referred to in a statement yesterday to the Post-Dispatch by Max
 Kannapell, saloon keeper at 4703
 Nebraska avenue, who asserts Lampe
 and three Federal prohibition enforcement agents demanded protection money of him.

Lampe is 24 years old; has been in the police department about 18 months, and lives at 4733A South Broadway, in the immediate neighborhood of Kannapell's saloon.

Charges of Saloon Keeper Kannapell has charged in a public statement that the prohibition enforcement agents simulated a raid of his place to take the nightingale
 from him; that he notified George Hauswein, local chief of general prohibition enforcement agents, of the situation, and that Hauswein laid a trap for Lampe, in which it was also planned to catch the Federal agents.

Kannapell said further that Lampe assured him that, after payment of the money, he would not be molested
 in future and could sell what he liked without fear of interference from enforcement officials.

Chief Hoagland will take the whole matter before the Police
 Board for a hearing, and President
 Brockmann said a full investigation would be made. E. E. Hunt of Kansas City, division chief of general prohibition agents in Missouri, and Pierce Hollinger, field representative of State Prohibition Director Allen, are here and also promise a full investigation.

Chief Inquiry Under Way.
 In the meantime, Bawelstein and others are interviewing other saloon keepers to ascertain the extent of graft, if any, as related by Kannapell.

In his statement to Chief Hoagland, Detective Lampe said he went to Kannapell's place Monday afternoon to purchase a bottle of milk
 for his baby and saw Prohibition enforcement Agents Gatter and Gosh-horn, who work under the direction of Gus O. Nations, making a raid
 under authority of a search warrant.
 He said they found some moonshine whiskey in the place, but did not confiscate it when told by Bernard Kwiatkowski, a former prohibition enforcement agent, who happened in
 at that moment, that the warrant was not legal for the reason that it was issued for search of 4701 Nebraska avenue, which is not Kannapell's number.

During the progress of the raid,
 Detective Lampe said, Kannapell
 asked him to "fix it" with the agents, promising to give him $250 for the agents and $20 for himself. Lampe accepted this proposal, but with mental reservations, he explained,
 that he would later return the money
 to Kannapell to hold the latter's friendship. It was Lampe's idea that he would take the money and later
 try that the agents refused it would at least convince Kannapell's that he, Lampe, had tried to help him.

Got Money at Bank.
 The following day, Tuesday,
 Lampe went to Kannapell's place
 and from there he and the saloon

NORTHERN MICHIGAN IN GRIP OF BLIZZARD; ZERO TEMPERATURE

Coldest March in History of New York Weather Bureau
 —Mercury Drops to 9.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., March 29.—The ninth day of spring found the upper half of lower Michigan and the entire northern part of the State in the grip of weather more severe than any experienced during the winter. A blizzard that brought with it sub-zero temperature broke Tuesday as far south as Traverse City in the west and Bay City in the east, and on to the northward, and still was raging this morning, according to reports.

Railroad traffic was at a standstill throughout most of the affected region, street car traffic was demoralized and highway travel was almost impossible.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., March 29.—
 The temperature dropped to 40 degrees below zero at Hornepayne, near here, Tuesday night, train crews which passed through the region reported today.

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 29.—
 The local station of the Weather Bureau recorded the coldest March 28 ever known in this city. Last night
 the official temperature was 2 below zero.

NEW YORK, March 29.—New York today experienced the coldest March weather on record with a 60-mile gale. The thermometer fell to 9 above zero, a drop of 27 degrees from yesterday. The previous low record for March was 19 degrees, established March 28, 1878. Northern New York reported snow.

At Saranac Lake the mercury dropped during the night to 20 degrees below zero and temperatures
 of 10 below were reported from several other upstate points.

Prediction That Year Will Pass
 Without Any Summer in Canada.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, March 29.—Shivering
 Canadians who follow the forecasts
 of local weather prophets were all worked up today over predictions that this year would pass without a summer. With the temperatures at or below zero throughout this section the local forecasters
 harked back to 1816, when, historical records say, there was frost in every month of the year. Birds were killed, corn and other crops failed to ripen and the Northern United States, say, was treated to a June snowstorm.

EARL OF CARNARVON REPORTED TO BE IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Blood Infection Reaches Lungs of Englishman Who Participated in Tomb Opening.

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, March 29.—Although the physicians attending the Earl of Carnarvon issued no bulletin today,
 it is understood that his condition is critical, the infection having reached his lungs.

Dispatches to London newspapers
 last night said the Earl had suffered a slight attack and that his condition was causing great anxiety. He is suffering with blood poisoning, caused by the bite of a mosquito. The first crisis in the disease, which he passed successfully, led to widespread comment, especially by the superstitious,
 on the dangers of disturbing the tomb of King Tutankhamen, supposedly guarded by curses laid about the burial place during the funeral ceremonies.

4 MEN ON TUG FROZEN TO DEATH

Five Others of Crew Rescued After

NORFOLK, Va., March 29.—Four men were frozen to death this morning in Albemarle Sound, near the mouth of the North River, 30 miles below Elizabeth City, N. C., when the tug Julian J. Fleetwood capsized
 during a storm.

Five other members of the crew
 were rescued by the Annie Vansever

MANY CRUSHED, FALL FAINTING AT GRAVE

Ceremony in Church Simple Without Eulogies, as Requested by Actress—U. S.
 Friends Represented.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 29.—Paris paused today to pay a final measure of respect to great Sarah Bernhardt.
 Crowds that gathered at the Church of St. Francois de Sales for the service and at the cemetery Pere La Chaise mourned sincerely for her whom they loved so well and they brought in profusion the tribute of flowers she requested.

The body was laid to rest in her tomb at 4 o'clock. The cemetery was filled with what old residents of Paris termed the greatest crowd in its history and as the casket of the tragedienne was lowered, into the simple tomb a great sigh swept over the throng, punctuated by the sobs
 of those more deeply affected.

Many Crushed at Bier.

In the rush to gain a glimpse of the bier, many were crushed and fainting while the long lines of gendarmes awayed to and fro under the pressure of the crowd. Not since the Victory Parade, in July, 1919, had a gathering of this immensity been constantly to gain magnitude with every block along the line of march.

The throng which overflowed the cemetery was composed for the most part of humble people who had remained there since early morning to gain a glimpse of the entombment.
 It was an entirely different one from that which witnessed the beginning of the procession in the distant quarter where the church is situated. At each of the respective sections of the city was reached the aspect of the crowd changed.

There were many, however, who made the pilgrimage from the church to the grave. It was remarked that the majority of these were old women
 and so fatigued were they by the three hours' journey that not a few fainted from sheer exhaustion.

Bernhardt's body rested in the rosewood casket which she ordered made 30 years ago. On the breast of her white satin dress was pinned
 the cross of the Legion of Honor,
 while about her neck was the gold locket containing the likeness of her son, Maurice.

The ceremony at the church was simple, for Bernhardt had expressed a wish that there be no eulogies. The vault that received her body also was unostentatious. On it was one word, "Bernhardt."

Through Near Church.

The streets leading to the Rue Ampere, where the church is, were thronged with crowds. The Rue Ampere itself was barred except to cardholders. The street was a veritable flower garden all the morning,
 as offerings from the Bernhardt Theatre, the opera, the Opera Comique, the Comedie Francaise and from individuals of every section of the world of art were placed near the church.

The exterior of the little church was somber with black drapery, but with a fringe of white and with the initials "S. B." prominently displayed. The interior likewise was draped in black.

The bier was placed at the head of the nave, elevated about 10 feet
 and surrounded with several score of candles with a cross of lilies four feet high at the foot. Places near the bier were reserved for artists of the Bernhardt Theatre.

Flowers Cover Hearse.

The ceremony in the church ended at 1 o'clock. The coffin was placed in a hearse covered with flowers and followed by five floats, each drawn by two horses and each bearing flowers piled 10 to a dozen feet high.

As the procession began to move toward the cemetery Pere La Chaise,
 all Paris seemed to be either lining
 the streets or hastening to find places on the route to the place of burial.

The elements were kind to the mourning throng. The day was one of beautiful sunshine, more like
 the weather of the day of her death.

FARMER FATALLY SHOT AT WINDOW; SON-IN-LAW HELD

Jefferson Bell, 53, Residing Near Delhi, Ill., Dies From Bullet Fired After He Had Ejected Visitor.

ELMER GARRISON, 20, NAMED BY CORONER

Prisoner, According to Testimony at Inquest, Had Quarreled With Bell After Wife Left Home.

Jefferson Bell, 53 years old, a farmer residing near Delhi, Ill., was fatally wounded about 8 o'clock last night by a bullet, which pierced a window near which he sat and passed through his head. He died early this morning.

Elmer Garrison, 20, of Whitehall, Ill., who had been ordered from the Bell home only a few minutes before the shooting, was arrested at the home of his mother, Mrs. Charles Riggs, in Venice, Ill., this morning.
 A coroner's verdict today named him as having inflicted the fatal wounds, and directed that he be held without bond.

Testimony at the inquest revealed that Garrison's 18-year-old wife, Bell's stepdaughter, and a bride of a few months, had gone from her home in Whitehall to the log-cabin home of the Bells yesterday, after a quarrel with Garrison, who was jealous of Bell and resented a visit

 he recently made to the Garrison home.

Carried Coked Rifle.

Garrison followed to the Bell home
 last night. Entering with a coked rifle, he is said to have abused his wife and to have waved the weapon menacingly in her face. Bell intervened, but Garrison, who was drunk, but later gave it back and ordered Garrison from the place.
 The son-in-law refused to leave until his wife had restored to him
 the automatic pistol she had taken from her home, because, she testified, she feared he might commit suicide in her absence. He loaded
 the pistol in the house and continued his abuse. It was said by Mrs.
 Garrison and her mother, Mrs. Bell, until Bell seized him by the shoulder
 and shoved him through the door.

Posse Hunts Assassin.

Bell then sat down near a window,
 his shadow clearly outlined on the drawn shade. Two minutes later two shots were fired, and he sank to the floor, a 22-caliber rifle ball having gone through his head. Garrison, who was not seen after he left the house, carried a rifle of this caliber.

A search by a Sheriff's posse
 through the hills about the Bell cabin did not end until word was received this morning that Garrison
 had been taken in his mother's home in Venice. When found he had about 25 cartridges of 22 caliber, but no weapon. He is a laborer in a Whitehall tile factory. Quarrels between him and his wife are said to have been frequent.

UNION OF ST. LOUIS AND RACQUET CLUBS PLANNED

Joint Board of Two Organizations Named to Consider Con-

 ed, to consider means of forming a consolidation of the two clubs and report to general meetings.
 No site has been chosen nor any definite plans evolved. The reason advanced is that conditions of club life have so changed one club can better discharge the functions of both.

VOTES TO REPEAL STATE DRY LAW

Action of Rhode Island House Con-

 People.

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 29.—
 The Rhode Island House of Representatives yesterday afternoon
 passed an act to repeal the State prohibition enforcement law on a roll call vote of 46 to 42.

The measure is contingent upon the approval of the people to nullify
 the enforcement statute at the next general election in 1924.

MRS. CAMEL AND SON, LATTER BORN AT SEA, REGISTERED AT ZOO

Double - Humped Variety Purchased at Cost of $1000—$10,000 'Rhino' Coming.

"Mrs. Camel and son." So reads
 the latest entry on the register of the Forest Park Zoo. They arrived yesterday and announced they would stay a long while. Superintendent Vierheller assigned them to a nice room in the stable and said that if all went well they could go out in the paddock today and receive the public as callers.

These are of the double-humped
 northern variety of camel, with long, shaggy hair. The baby, which is about the size of a pony, was born on the S.S. Bayern a couple of months ago; this was the ship on which the Hagenbecks of Hamburg, Germany, brought over a large collection of wild animals. George E. W. Luehrmann, 2129 Hawthorne boulevard, a lumberman, bought the pair for the Zoo for $1000. Other animals at the Zoo are "Noble Moolah" and a female single-humped beast, or drom-edary.

The Zoo has a reservation for "Mr.
 Rhinoceros, of India," who may arrive in a week or two, provided the Hagenbecks accept an offer to deliver him to Forest Park, in good condition, for $10,000. He is of the rare, single-horned variety, whose native haunts are only in India. The more common two-horned kind come from Africa. This tough-skinned fellow may take up his home
 in the elephant house here, along with the other pachyderms, including "Steve," the hippopotamus. "Mr.
 Rhino" is due in Boston next Monday.

Miners on Strike in Gelsenkirchen District Total 15,000; Occupying Forces Having Difficulty in Loading Coal Trains.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

PARIS, March 29.—The French will occupy additional territory on the right bank of the Rhine within the next few days, German here have been informed.

It is said the occupying forces will connect their present railway posts at Wipperfurth with the port at Overath, turned over to them by the British two weeks ago.

They propose to occupy in this move, the reports explain, the railroad centers at Marienheide, Gummersbach and Dieringhausen.

By so doing, they can cut off supplies of chemicals and ores which pass through these railway points from the Oppen and Sieged regions on their way to the textile industries of Bremen and Elberfeld in the valley of the Wupper, so far unoccupied, and the metalware and tool factories in the valley of the Vellmer.

These two valleys lie just outside the occupied Ruhr zone and their industries already have been greatly hampered by lack of Ruhr coal. They will be the new occupations be completely crippled without the necessity of occupying the entire territory.

French Settle Wine Cellars and Vineyard Holdings.

DUISBURG, March 29.—The French authorities have begun taking over the Prussian state-owned vineyards along the Moselle River, according to the Deutsche Rheinische Volkszeitung. The paper says the seizure includes vineyards, buildings, cellars and houses.

The town of Mettmann, near Elberfeld, was surrounded yesterday by French troops and tanks. The French demanded that the Mettmann officials give the names of the Germans responsible for the shooting and wounding of a French Major several days ago.

2 Traffic to Mettmann has been entirely shut off. The Interurban street cars running between Düsseldorf and Elberfeld are stopped at the outskirts and the Mettmann passengers are obliged to walk across the town.

French Loading Only Few Coal Trains, Germans Say.

GELSENKIRCHEN, March 29.—Fifteen thousand miners are on strike in the Gelsenkirchen district at all mines occupied by troops, according to estimates made in German quarters. The men quit work as a protest against the occupation.

Five thousand men are out at the Westerholt properties, 4000 at Rheinhausen, 4000 at the Concordia mines and 2000 at the Blumenthal plants. They have served notice that they will not return to work until the soldier leaves. From Rheinhausen comes the report that the Germans there blew so long in protest that the Belgians threatened to shoot unless the noise was stopped.

2 The Germans assert semi-officially that the occupying forces are having difficulty in operating the loading apparatus at these mines and that so far they have succeeded in loading only three or four small trains daily.

He compared the situation in Europe with the beginning of a great industrial strike and said that the same temper was exhibited, a temper which would bring about interference. It was only by keeping in direct, close and honest touch with the interested parties that the situation might be brought to the right moment came for

FRIEND OF MODEL

Police and District Attorney's Office Join in Retracing Steps Each Has Taken in Investigation.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 29.—United in their search for the murderer of Dorothy Keenan, for the first time since the woman's body was found two weeks ago, the police and the District Attorney's office started today on a joint expedition retracing the steps each has taken in separate investigations. Every person already examined in order to recall to memory the details of the case, the two agencies agreed to re-examine.

The two separate organizations have up until now been proceeding on different theories. The police held the murder was the bungling of a burglar seeking gems and furs, who did not know how to use chloroform, the District Attorney's office proceeded on the basis that Miss Keenan was killed in some ramifications of a $100,000 blackmail plot designed to victimize John Kearsley Mitchell, son-in-law of E. T. Stetson of Philadelphia.

Daughter Names Man.

While Assistant District Attorney Pecora was informed by Maj. Drummer M. Daugherty, son of the Attorney-General, of the name of the man he asserts attempted to intimidate him by exposing what the Major says was a "casual and social" acquaintance with Miss Keenan, Pecora indicated that he did not have sufficient evidence for an arrest.

This individual already has been mentioned in the case as one of its minor figures and was very close to the dead girl, said Pecora, but that was as far as he would identify the man.

Daugherty, appearing voluntarily before Pecora, yesterday, discussed at length with him his acquaintance with the slain model and then vanished.

Met at World Series.

Daugherty, who was accompanied by a friend whose name was not revealed, was closeted with Pecora about 45 minutes at the conference. Pecora said he had confirmed newspaper reports of his casual friendship with Miss Keenan, and the attempt made by telephone to blackmail him.

In sketching his acquaintance with the model, Daugherty told the prosecutor he first had met her during the world series of 1921. Their acquaintance was casual, he said, and he added that he had called at her apartment with friends, but he never saw her alone, although once he gave her a check when she asked him to press for funds.

Another development was Pecora's announcement by Pecora that among the contents of the girl's safety deposit box opened last week was a number of letters.

Guardians of the vault, he said, would not permit taking of a inventory because this was not called for in the order issued to the girl's mother by Superior Court Judge, but detectives had seen letters in the box. Pecora said he had suggested to the police that they take legal steps to gain possession of the papers.

Guilmare Breaks Silence.

Alfred Guilmare, intimate friend of Dorothy Keenan, today broke the silence he has maintained before newspaper men and declared that either Pecora or Daugherty was in error in saying that Daugherty was unacquainted with him. He said, who yesterday interviewed Guilmare, quoted Daugherty as saying he had never met Guilmare.

Guilmare, talking freely after he had been arraigned on a charge of violating the law against firearms, and released in $2500 bail, said he had been introduced to Daugherty in a cabaret by Miss Keenan.

"We had a brief chat," he said, "and Dot and I left soon after."

Further than that I know nothing of the Major."

THREE "MOONSHINERS," ONE A WOMAN, SLAIN IN KENTUCKY

Five Children Escape When Companions of Deputy, Who Is Shot, Pour Rifle Fire Into House.

By the Associated Press.

HARLAN, Ky., March 29.—County officers and possemen returned today from the mouth of Beech Creek in the hills of Leslie County with an account of the desperate last stand of the Strongs, in which three men and a woman were killed Wednesday.

Kelly Walker, Deputy Sheriff of Taylor, Ky., Isaac and George Strong and Mrs. Isaac Strong were killed.

Carrying a warrant for the arrest of Isaac on charges of liquor law violations, 22 possemen arrived at the Strong home and surrounded the house. Deputy Walker advanced toward the house with the warrant. A hidden marksman fired and Walker staggered with a wound in the breast. As he ran for cover a second bullet pierced his head.

Companions of the slain officer concentrated a withering fire from rifles on the house from advantageous positions. The possemen fled. The fire of the defenders finally ceased. The officers found the two men and Mrs. Strong dead, the woman, with a repeating rifle clutched in her fingers.

They hid their hiding place under a bed five children of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Strong crawled out. They had escaped unharmed.

Two stills were found in a strongly fortified position back of the house. They were destroyed together with 700 gallons of beer.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Representations of "earnest hope" that Archbishop Zepiak and Monsignor Butchkevich of the Roman Church may be spared from the death sentence passed upon them in Moscow have been made by the State Department to the Soviet government, through the American Ambassador at Berlin.

Official announcement that the American government had taken this step to "give expression to the humanitarian interest of the American people" in the fate of the two ecclesiastics was made.

The sentences had been characterized by department officials earlier in the day as constituting an outrage against humanity which could not fail to create the deepest feeling of resentment and horror in the United States.

Protests against the executions were received by the department during the day from the Catholic Club of New York City. A cablegram of protest also was sent by the National Catholic Welfare Council to M. Tchitcherine, People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs at Moscow, declaring that carrying out of the sentences would "outrage not only the charitable and generous Catholics of America; but the entire Christian world."

NEW YORK, March 29.—Thomas C. Craven, New York manufacturer of toilet articles, and three others today were arrested in connection with the alleged sale to prohibition agents of 3000 cases of whisky and 1000 gallons of grain alcohol, brought into this country from Havana.

Hearing that Craven was receiving large shipments, Acting Prohibition Commissioner, J. Edgar Hoover, made a trade with the manufacturer, who, according to Yellowley, had a permit only for denatured alcohol for use in his business. The Commissioner said he was going to have the whisky seized today and $5000 paid by the agents.

PROTEST AGAINST DISTRIBUTION OF CANDY EASTER EGGS SUNDAY

Papa Club to Try to Make Arrangements for Giving Them Out to Children Saturday.

Following a protest today by 18 religious organizations and denominations against the plan of the Park and Playground Association (Park Club) to distribute 75,000 candy Easter eggs to children at 34 parks and playgrounds next Sunday morning, G. A. Buder, president of the association, said he would try to make arrangements to have the distribution Saturday afternoon.

Representatives of the organizations said they would be glad to help in the plan Saturday afternoon, but protested that the distribution Sunday morning would violate the sanctity of Easter and tend to keep children away from church and Sunday school then, or put them in an improper frame of mind if they did go.

No Extra Rights for Priests in Russia, Soviet Statement Says.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 29.—The Russian Agency, the Russian Soviet official agency, has issued a statement declaring that the members of the Catholic Church, just convicted at Moscow, were charged with offenses for which they would have been equally liable for prosecution in any country in the world, namely, defiance of the law of the land and open and secret incitement to violence.

"The Soviet Government," the statement says, "is not prepared to tolerate such activities, particularly when the offenders declare that their allegiance is to a foreign religious authority and not to the Russian Government and still less when there is reason to suspect direct interference with the Soviet state. In Soviet Russia, as in all other countries, priests have no privileges or extra territorial rights in the eyes of the law."

HOW OF CAPTAIN AND COLONEL TO BE PUT UP TO WEEKS

Brother-in-Law of Capt. E.
H. Randle, Who Is Suing
Col. A. L. Conger, Takes Hand in Matter.

WILL INSIST ON SEARCHING INQUIRY

Written Review of the Dispute by the Plaintiff to Be Submitted to the Secretary of War.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 29.—
Louis K. Karns, brother of Mrs.
Agnes Karns Randle, who, with her husband, Capt. Edward H. Randle, is suing Col. A. L. Conger of Fort Sam Houston, Tex., for $100,000 alleged defamation of character, is on his way to Washington today to lay the entire matter before the War Department.

Karns, who lives in Indianapolis,
received a special delivery letter from Capt. Randle yesterday, in which details of the affair were revealed to the family for the first time.

Capt. Randle explained in the letter that all his telegrams had been concocted by Col. Conger.

Weeks to Be Appealed To.
The matter will be taken directly to Secretary of War Weeks, Karns said. He said he would insist upon a searching investigation of the whole affair.

Mrs. Randle said Col. Conger followed a number of controversies.
According to the statement of Capt. Randle, which Karns is taking to Washington, the whole affair originated at two parties given at Capt. Randle's quarters—one New Year's eve and the other Feb. 10,
this year.

Capt. Randle's quarters, the statement says, are one-half of a wartime hospital building, the only other building between his apartment and that of his neighbor being two thicknesses of heavy board.

"The guests on both of these occasions," said Capt. Randle's letter to Karns, "were officers of my regiment and their wives."

Not Friendly With Neighbors.
Capt. Randle said that an officer and his wife who occupy the other end of the same building are not friendly of his.

At the instigation of his wife,
this officer, according to Capt. Randle, made an official report to the divisional inspector that Capt. Randle gave frequent parties at his quarters lasting into the night, which disturbed him and his family and
at which profane language was used.

The officer was questioned by the divisional inspector, the Captain said, and he admitted his only knowledge was "what his wife had told him."

"The officers who were guests of mine," Capt. Randle's statement said, "testified that the parties were quiet and that the family and I were singing and dancing, but there was absolutely no profane language used."

The inspector in his report, the Captain said, stated that "although there was no evidence as to the liquor
it must have been served, and that I showed lack of consideration for others by holding noisy gatherings
in my quarters."

Conversation With Conger.
On March 6, according to Capt.
Randle, Col. Conger spoke to him in private and advised him to consider Mrs. Randle to blame.

"Col. Conger told me that as long as she was my wife my career in the army would be miserable," Capt.
Randle said. The Captain's statement goes on as follows:

"Col. Conger said that he would not recommend me for any duty
away from the regiment on her account; that although he would not advise me to get a divorce (that was my personal problem), he would advise an immediate and permanent separation."

"Until this incident Col. Conger and Mrs. Conger had always been friendly toward Mrs. Randle, and at times Mrs. Conger had been more intimate with Mrs. Randle than with any other woman at the post."

"I told Col. Conger that I knew of nothing to warrant such a statement concerning Mrs. Randle and that if it contained anything against Mrs. Randle's character I would like to see a copy of the inspector's report."

Two Nasty Parties Mentioned.
Two days later Col. Conger gave me a copy of the report to read. It stated there was absolutely nothing would tend to reflect in any way
on the character or conduct of Mrs.
Randle except the fact that in her house two parties were given which were reported as being noisy and at which profane language was alleged to have been used."

"I assured the Colonel," as I had the inspector, that these two parties were absolutely innocent of any kind, and all the guests gave the same testimony. We were all officers in high standing, but our words amounted to nothing against the incorrupt statement of a neighbor."

"After he had finished reading the proceedings," Col. Conger said, "Capt.

friends were arrested on a charge of concealed weapons," said "Jelly Roll" Hogan, who re-entered the room at that point.

Hogan's salary as Deputy State Beverage Inspector is $1800 a year,
and Thomas Speed Mosby, head of the department of beverage inspection, has said that Hogan will remain in the department as long as he (Mosby) is in charge. Mosby's term expires next Thursday.

"I don't care what the police say," Hogan continued. "It's not me that is stretching this thing out. I never went gunning for anybody. I was arrested for having a gun in my automobile. I was carrying it in self-defense and a jury acquitted me."

How the Feud Began.
"This feud, as they call it, began when somebody spread the rumor that my brother, Jimmy, was one of three men hired by Max Greenberg to kill Bill Egan. That was a damned lie and I'd like to know who started it. Why, one of the three men mentioned as the murderers of Egan, John Doyle, later killed by detectives, was in jail in Ohio when Egan was killed."

"Jimmy" Hogan is under sentence of 15 years in the penitentiary for the robbery of Ernie Pillow, a fire-bug bank messenger. Pillow was murdered near his home shortly after Hogan's arrest in connection with the robbery, and prosecuting authorities regarded this as a deliberate blow at justice, to prevent his testimony against Hogan.

"The other crowd seems to think that Jimmy is in the house here,"
mistaken. He's not here, nor anywhere near."

"I'd like to know where I got the nickname of 'Jelly Roll.' That is something else that has been wished on me. None of my friends call me that. I haven't any idea how or where it originated."

The Rev. Father Timothy Dempsey, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Sixth and Biddle street, who is trying to patch up a truce in the gang war, said he was trying to get in touch with William P. (Dinty)

Man Who Shot Self Here Ex-

Wound in Birmingham.

Louis F. Staudinger, 35 years old,
of 3543 Crittenden street, shot himself yesterday when in a public park
in Birmingham, Ala., and is not expected to recover, according to a dispatch today. His wound is near the heart.

Staudinger shot himself Feb. 5
while in Tower Grove Park, near his home, and inflicted a wound near the heart, which appeared at first to be mortal, but he recovered within a short time. His action then,
and the repetition of the attempt yesterday, were attributed to depres-

Staudinger is mechanical engineer of the Mancha Storage Battery Co.
His wife and two daughters live at

"I have had a talk with Hogan,"
said Father Dempsey, "and I am satisfied that he will call this war
off. If I could just get him and Colbeck together I'd make them
shake hands."

"You know, it's not Hogan and Colbeck so much as it is the irrasionable youths who delight in calling themselves Hogan gunmen or Egan gunmen. Now, if Hogan and Colbeck would only shake hands
and pass out the word that they are no longer enemies, I believe the other boys would put up their guns and quit shooting each other."

"Gossip at the bottom of this whole thing. Somebody starts a rumor that Max Greenberg is in town or that Jimmy Hogan is to be killed within 48 hours, and the boys believe it all and go gunning for each other. They are fascinated by the glamour. They like to hear their exploits discussed. I am heartbroken over it. None of the boys belong to my parish. They represent various nationalities and creeds, but apparently go out to them just the same, and I'd give anything I possess if I could only stop them."

CITY ADOPTS PLAN OF MAILING PAY CHECKS TO HOME

Consternation Among Municipal Employees of New Orleans Over Proposal.

By the Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, March 29.—
Married men employed by the city government were thrown into consternation today with the announcement by Commissioner Murphy that hereafter their pay checks would be mailed to their home address instead of being handed to them in person.

"Every city employee, from the Mayor down, is going to get his check at home," Commissioner Murphy said. "The money belongs in the home and I am going to do my best to put it there, and then if some of the wives cannot keep it
there, that is their fault."

One of the men affected tried to substitute the address of a police station for his residence address, others hurried to the postoffice appropriated boxes, but when the payrolls
were made up the Commissioner checked them with the old payrolls
and changing the new addresses back to the old ones.

One man called on Murphy and told him he had received an increase in salary a year ago and had not to his wife of the happy event.

"I ask, Commissioner, how in the world can I explain this thing to her when she sees that check?" he pleaded.

One city employee's wife called the Commissioner by telephone and announced that she had heard "the good news" and was sending him a box of candy.

glass windows of which concern were shattered by bullets fired in a running pistol fight between rival gan-sters, in automobiles early Tuesday,
said, referring to his telegram of protest to Gov. Hyde and his suggestion of a citizen fund of $100,000 to aid
the police in ridding the city of the gangs, that he was not criticizing the police. "I believe they are doing as well as the police," he said,
"but they should be backed up by better laws." Frampton offered to contribute $1000 to a fund.

The police recently asked Gov.
Hyde to help them get the concealed weapons law amended so that convictions might be obtained.

Hogland's View.
"That is the only weapon we have
with which to deal with the gan-sters," said Chief of Detectives Hogland, "and it is almost worthless. It should be broader in scope."

Under the provisions of the present law the weapon must be concealed on or about the person.

Gangsters throw away their weapons

BURGULARS LOOT SAFE OF STORAGE COMPANY OF $500

Undetermined Amount of Jewelry in Custody of Leontori Concern.

Also Taken.
Burglars obtained between $500
and $400 last night in the R. L. J.
Leontori Auction and Storage Co. at 3507 Lucas avenue, together with an undetermined amount of jewelry left in the custody of the company for auction.

The combination of a safe was knocked off. There was nothing in short that the burglars had broken
in from the outside and the conclusion was that they had hid in the place following an auction yesterday.

when a policeman approaches.
The Missouri Supreme Court has ruled that in the case of a weapon
carried in an automobile guilt is established if the weapon is in such close proximity to the accused as to be within reach and convenient control. Informations, based on that decision, were issued Monday against six members of the Hogan gang who were arrested in an automobile in which detectives found six loaded pistols on the floor.

The six were arraigned in the Court of Criminal Correction today
and all pleaded not guilty. "Jelly Roll" Hogan accompanied them and arranged bond for their appearance later at a preliminary hearing. The men charged are John (Kink) Gon-nell, Harry Greenberg, Patrick Sewell and William Longo, alias Frank Beva.

William Longo and Charles Mercurio, members of the Hogan gang, were arrested yesterday afternoon in the 2100 block on Cass avenue, a block from the Hogan home. Detectives reported that Longo threw a loaded automatic pistol into a lot.

Longo denied ownership of the weapon. Another information was issued today against Longo in connection with yesterday's arrest.

Elmer Runge and Isadore Londe, known to the police as members of "Egan's Rats," Mrs. Runge and Irene Sturms were arrested by the Police Homicide Squad at Vandeventer avenue and Delmar boulevard this afternoon, in compliance with the new order to arrest known gangsters on sight, in an effort to stop the gang warfare.

Mrs. Runge, the detectives reported, had a .38-caliber revolver under her arm. They were in Londe's car. Edward J. Hogan had asserted when he was arrested after a shooting affair on Grand boulevard, south of St. Louis avenue, last Saturday night, that it was Londe and Runge who had shot at him. Londe and Runge have been arrested on suspicion of knowledge of various crimes recently.

LIVELY SCENES AT DOG SHOW CLOSING SESSION

Trained Police Dogs Make It Interesting for Padded "Enemy" in Trial Attacks.

Two cups and a ribbon for the best-trained police dogs in the bench show of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club at the Coliseum were awarded yesterday. Some of them imported German dogs belonging to August A. Busch Jr., a fourth prize went to Patrolman Albert Grueter's Asko von Varenholtz, which has served two years in the Dortmund
Police Department in the Ruhr.

Funk, a jet black dog of brilliant appearance, who jumps a "hedge" 10 feet 4 inches high and made a perfect score in the trials last night
and Tuesday night, was first; Bela,
the first trained dog, Busch imported,
was second, and Amor was third.

Dozen Dogs in Competition.
About a dozen dogs competed in the trials on the three nights of the show, and the competition was stiff.
The policeman's dog showed exceptional training in some of the stunts,
but would not jump. Some of them showed tricks of their own, aside from the run of heel, sitting or speaking at a command or a signal, jumping, finding (they cannot trail)
a hidden object and guarding it, and attacking an enemy.

Last night's attendance was said
to be, while not as large as the record crowd of the previous night, the largest for a closing session, and the rings where judging was in progress
were comparatively forsaken for the trials of police dogs. Applause was frequent.

Hot Time for the "Enemy."
The "enemy" has had a hectic time. His "rear-proof" padded suit had to be extensively patched for last night's mauling and slashing.
When he entered the ring and the dog's hair rose there would be a tense silence, and you could well imagine him beginning the song that runs:

"Look out! Look out, my pretty lad!
The damn police are on your trail.
The sweetest girl you ever had
Will soon begin to weep and wail."

But, as Funk or Bela leaped straight for his club hand and held him helpless while jerking him about the ring, or Amor half knocked him down with the first rush and had to be pried off, "you could never imagine his finishing the song in one key or any tempo? Amor is the most ferocious of the lot. He broke a chain to get at the enemy Monday night, and while others at a command would meekly cease the attack, Amor was on him again at the slightest provocation.

Police Dogs "Too Popular."
Handlers and breeders of other dogs are not altogether in sympathy with the police dogs' popularity. One was overheard telling another, "This is the first show where I've seen so many of those brutes. Thank goodness, they're falling off in the East."
The other said, "I'm glad to hear it."

There were unusually large entries
of some of the rarer breeds for St.

MRS. PELINSKI, SEERESS OF WELLSTON, IS DEAD

Figured in Illinois Swindle Case, for Which Husband Is Now in Prison.

Za-Za, the seeress, is dead. Her real name was Mrs. Augusta Pelinski and as such the death records of St. Petersburg, Fla., where she died Monday will mark her passing. She lived for many years at 4152 Kosuth avenue and later moved to 4318 Wellmar avenue, Wellston, where members of her family still reside.

Joseph Pelinski, her husband, is serving an indeterminate sentence in the Southern Illinois Penitentiary for his part in a swindle which cost West Bauer, an aged farmer of Alton, Ill., $14,000, in 1919. The part taken by Madame Pelinski was even more pertinent if less hazardous. She had agreed to obtain the help of spirits in finding a fortune of buried gold on Bauer's farm. The searchers were to put a red light over the spot. They neglected to do this and Bauer complained.

The case moved to trial and Pelinski was sentenced March 5, 1919. It was proved that he had acted as the medium between Za-Za and Bauer's bank account while Za-Za was working with the spirits. He had collected the $14,000 and had done so in Illinois. His wife and a daughter were indicted also, but Gov. Gardner of Missouri refused extradition papers for them on the ground that they had collected no money from Bauer in Illinois.

Mrs. Pelinski was 44 years old when she died. Her husband now is 51. Bauer is 81 years old. A Civil War veteran and practically without funds, because of his inability to recover any of the $14,000 from the Pelinskis, he and a wife are living at the Nazareth Home in Alton.

Za-Za was a queen of the colony of clairvoyants, witch doctors and plain fortune tellers who infest Wellston and the western border of the city. She and her husband were cosmopolites. Each winter they went to Florida, to Palm Beach or St. Petersburg. They possessed imagination.

Crystal Waters Come High. During the dickering with Bauer they explained the high fee charged by the contention that Madame Pelinski must go to Florida to get certain crystal waters for her contact with the spirit world. Although Za-Za was quite willing to tell fortunes for a quarter in a little tent at street fairs in Wellston, she frequently undertook higher things. Tradersmen who desired better jobs, unwitting heirs who liked to be told of waiting fortunes, widows in search of husbands were among her clients.

Joseph E. Pelinski, her son, said yesterday that no news of the funeral arrangements would be given out. According to the death notice, Madame Pelinski is survived by her husband and by four children. Erwin, Elsie, Clara and Joseph E. Pelinski.

STATE RESTS CASE IN SECOND HERRIN TRIAL

Thirty-Two Witnesses Examined
by Prosecution—Newspaper man Repeats His Story.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MARION, Ill., March 29.—The State rested at 10 a. m. today in the second Herrin massacre trial after having examined 32 witnesses since the hearing began March 6.

Donald M. Ewing, Chicago newspaper man, was a witness yesterday and repeated the story told at the first trial of what he saw on the day of the killings.

Ewing told of going to the Lester mine and from there to Herrin. While on the way to Herrin he was stopped by a crowd on the road at the Herrin cemetery.

"I saw six men on the side of the road that looked as though they had been tied together by ropes around their necks," he said. "Three appeared to be dead, one seemed to be breathing and two others were asking for water. I looked at them a few seconds and then went to a nearby house and came back with a bucket filled with water. A man whom I afterwards found to be Howard Hoffman was nearest to me and I thought was the most seriously wounded, so I started to give him a drink. A man with a long gun of some kind, not a revolver, said, 'Keep away, you.'"

Says He Was Threatened.

"Did that man not say to you that you would get the same thing the wounded man had if you gave him a drink?" asked Assistant Attorney General Middlekauff. "Some man in the crowd did. I am not sure whether it was the same man."

"Who was that man?" "It was Bert Grace."

The witness then pointed Grace out in the courtroom.

Rufus Neely, in his cross-examination, devoted a considerable part of his examination to quizzing the witness concerning the story which the witness said he telephoned to St. Louis concerning the "water incident."

A pamphlet issued by the National Coal Association entitled "The Herrin Conspiracy," was quoted at length by Neely until the state finally objected to its being read, as the witness stated he had never seen the book nor heard of it. The defense contended the book was written from Ewing's story of the affair, but many of the quotations, Ewing said, were exaggerated and not contained in his report.

Saw Grace Later.

"Did you know Bert Grace?" asked the Defense Attorney. "No, I saw him the next day, or day after that, in Herrin near the building used as a morgue, and asked him about the inquest and then learned his name by asking some men nearby."

"Did you say in your story that you saw a young woman there with a baby in her arms and that she said: 'I'll see you in hell before you get any water'?" "I dictated that in effect. The fact is true. I saw the woman there and she said that."

"Didn't you come down here just to write all the color you could?" "I gave facts, not color."

"Did you not at the first trial testify that you reached the cemetery about 10:10 and now you have changed your testimony?" "I was confused with the Chicago daylight saving time, but I have since verified my telephone call from Herrin and the records show that I was in the telephone office at 10:40, having gone there from the cemetery."

"Isn't it a fact that you were not at the cemetery at all?" "It is not."

Tells of Salary Increase.

"Isn't it a fact that you picked up the story about the woman on the streets of Herrin?" "It is not; I saw it."

"Is it not true that you were forced to resign from the Associated Press because of your stories about the riot?" "It is not. On the contrary, I was given a month's vacation and an increase in salary."

Another witness yesterday was J. C. Hook of Louisville, Ky., who formerly was manager of an insurance office in Marion which specialized in workmen's compensation insurance. He was called to tell of an alleged admission made by Phillip Fontanetta, the youngest of the defendants, for whose family he had handled a compensation claim. The defense objected to Hook's telling of the alleged admission made by Fontanetta on the ground that Fontanetta had consulted him as a lawyer and that therefore the communication was confidential and privileged. Judge Hartwell sustained the contention on the ground that Hook himself had not immediately reported to the authorities the alleged admission and had treated it as a confidential communication until he had revealed it to another attorney.

Hook was then permitted to testify that the afternoon before the riots he had seen Fontanetta lead a crowd into a Marion hardware store and had heard him say: "There are 14 of our brothers in the trenches and killed. We must get arms and ammunition. Let's go to the American Legion and get the American Legion guns."

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Weakness

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means, drink lots of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Friday—12 Noon to 3 P. M.

Broadcasting the "The Ore" service at the church of St. Francis Xavier, Grand and Lindell boulevards.

8:00 P. M.

Broadcasting "The Crucifixion" (Stainer), at Westminster Presbyterian Church, Delmar and Union boulevards.

11:30 P. M.

Artist recital by William A. LeMaster, baritone, and Marcia Field, pianist.

The Three Hours' Agony, a Good Friday service of the Catholic Church, which is to be celebrated in the Church of St. Francis Xavier, Lindell and Grand boulevards, from 12 to 3 tomorrow, will be broadcast in its entirety by Station K S D. Arrangements have been made to place microphones in the church so that each part of the solemn and beautiful service will be heard clearly by radio and will be heard by many hundreds of persons who might otherwise be deprived of the privilege of hearing this service.

The Rev. Father James J. Merz, S. J., of Loyola University of Chicago, will deliver the discourses on the seven last words of Jesus, and Father J. J. O'Brian, S. J., will read the prayers and other numbers of the service. The music will be especially notable. Dubois' "The Seven Last Words of Our Lord," arranged for soprano, tenor and baritone solo and mixed voices, will be sung by the choir of St. Francis Xavier Church, directed by George T. Devaux, choirmaster and organist of the church and musical director of St. Louis University. Soloists in this choir will be Mrs. Charles Daly, soprano; J. J. Rohan, tenor, and William Nuelle, baritone. Seventy voices will compose the choir. The service will be a choir of 16 scholars of St. Louis University, directed by Andrew Dimichino, S. J., who will sing other parts of the service. Incidental solos will be sung by Guy Gorman, tenor, and Armin Mueller, baritone, and the congregation will take part in the singing of the hymns. The service has been so arranged as to take place within the three hours stated.

The Three Hours' Agony. "The Ore," as it is generally known, is in commemoration of the three hours during which Christ hung upon the cross. This solemn service is composed of prayers, music and discourses. The discourses are upon the seven words uttered by Christ on the cross, each word being the subject of one of the discourses. The Three Hours' Agony is one of the extra-liturgical practices which have sprung up in the church, and is at once one of the oldest and the newest devotions. It pictures to the minds of Christian people scene after scene of the fundamental fact of Christianity, the atonement made for the sins of the world. Being one of the most solemn services of the church its broadcasting will be all the more remarkable and will command the deepest reverence of Catholic and Protestant alike who listen in on this broadcasting.

Other Programs Tomorrow. The rest of the schedule for the Good Friday broadcasting includes two programs. One at 8 p. m. will be a rendition of the Good Friday oratorio, "The Crucifixion," by Sir John Stainer, given by the massed choirs of several Protestant churches under the direction of William M. Jenkins, president of the St. Louis chapter of the American Guild of Organists. This will take place in the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Union and Delmar boulevards, and will be an elaborate and impressive service. Soloists will be Louis F. Helges, tenor, and James W. Porteous, baritone.

The second program will take place in the K S D studio beginning at 11:30 p. m. and the artists taking part will be William A. LeMaster, grand opera baritone, and Marguerite Reid, pianist. This program will be largely secular and will consist of both ballads and operatic selections as well as piano solo.

Last Night's Concert. The concert broadcast last night by Station K S D was so good that persons as far away as Massachusetts, Oklahoma and New Mexico took the trouble to wire their congratulations, while several called on the station by long-distance telephone to express their approval and admiration. The first part of the program was a short piano recital given by Karl Schambacher, assisted by Miss Frances Huckle. Schambacher is a young and very ambitious pianist, who will depart next month for a two years' course of study at the Berlin Conservatory of Music. He played three short compositions, and two movements of the Mendelssohn piano concerto. Miss Huckle played the accompanying piano in the last number. A careful attention to detail coupled with a rather brilliant technique was the outstanding feature of Schambacher's work, but his interpretation, especially of the concerto, was not altogether satisfying.

The second part of the program was given by Misses Harriet Husted Young and Julia Etta Broughton, assisted by Miss Frances Alcorn, soprano, Robert Lyle Malone, tenor, and Miss Myrtle Alcorn, accompanist. Exquisite artistry and a complete mastery of the instrument marked the piano renditions, while the song numbers were equally artistic and thoroughly delightful.

POLITICS HAS INNING WITH HARDING'S PARTY

President Has Confidence in Daugherty's Judgment, but Would Avoid Thought of 1924.

By the Associated Press.
ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 29.—The political atmosphere which has so lightly surrounded President Harding and the administration officials comprising his vacation party today seemed to gather a little closer. One of the contributing factors to this concentration was the development that the President, after turning over in his mind the statement recently made in Miami by Attorney-General Daugherty, his predecessor in 1920 and since then his chief political adviser, had come to the conclusion that it might have been better had the statement been withheld at least for the present. In his statement, Daugherty, while emphasizing that it was too long until the 1924 campaign to begin to talk of politics, predicted that Mr. Harding would be a candidate for re-nomination.

President Sees Daugherty.
The other factor was the arrival here of Daugherty. Until yesterday the President and his principal adviser in matters of politics had not met since the latter had issued his statement. Daugherty came to St. Augustine in accordance with previously announced plans and is en route back to Washington after a visit to Florida to recuperate from his recent illness. The President and Daugherty were together only a few minutes, the executive stopping at the Attorney-General's suite on his way to lunch.

The President, in his study of the situation, is understood by some of those close to him to have singly in his mind the two remaining years of his administration and to feel that proper solution of the problems they will present should be subjects of more thought than what is to happen to him personally in 1924.

The chief executive, it was learned, is highly appreciative of the motive that actuated Daugherty in making his statement and has the greatest confidence in the Attorney-General's judgment. He, however, as his feelings have been interpreted by some of his friends, wants to avoid everything that would tinge his actions during the coming months with politics.

Daugherty has made it plain since leaving out his statement that it was not inspired by the President and has been most anxious to relieve the executive of any embarrassment that might have been occasioned. Several Republican leaders now in Florida have acclaimed the Daugherty statement, one of them former Representative Campbell of Kansas, declaring that the Attorney-General openly expressed the thought deepest in the minds of the party leaders everywhere in saying that the Republican party could not do ought but renominate Mr. Harding if he would consent to make the race.

Executive Addresses Lodge Men.
Some 50 initiatives in the Scottish Rite, forming a class here in the twenty-first and twenty-seventh degrees, today claimed the distinction of having been addressed directly by President Harding. The President last night, accompanied by Brigadier-General Sawyer slipped quietly away from the hotel and walked over to the Scottish Rite temple, where he remained for two hours, witnessing the ceremonies and at their close addressing the class.

More golf and more rest was the President's program for today. It was considered probable that he would have a few conferences, including one with Attorney-General Daugherty.

"LOVE NEST" CHARGE IN SUIT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BALTIMORE, Md., March 29.—Dr. Leonard Keene Hirschberg, scientist and alleged "blind pool" promoter, under indictment here on a perjury charge, is defendant in a suit for divorce, and an orphan girl, said to have been his ward, is named in the case.
A "love nest" at Long Beach, L. I., is mentioned in the papers of the case. The orphan girl is Elsie Yates of Baltimore. Dr. Hirschberg lives at the Elks Club in New York, while Miss Yates lives at 838 Seventh avenue, New York, with two other girls. The plea for divorce mentions specifically a cottage at Long Beach and places in New York, where, the petition alleges, Dr. Hirschberg and Miss Yates lived as "Dr. and Mrs. Hirschberg."
Elsie Yates is said to have become acquainted with Dr. Hirschberg several years ago when he was promoting the sale of all stocks in Baltimore. She was employed in his office.

Missing Hotel Clerk Arrested.
By the Associated Press.
HOUSTON, Tex., March 29.—A man, 36 years old, picked up on the streets last night on a description broadcast from Chicago, confessed to police officers that he was George S.

Keith, Chicago hotel clerk, wanted since June 21 in connection with the theft of $8000 worth of diamonds from a jeweler of that city.

PRINCIPAL BUTLER'S FUNERAL AT YEATMAN HIGH SATURDAY

Teachers and Pupils to Attend—Deaths Attributed to Heart Trouble.

The funeral of William M. Butler, principal of Yeatman High School, who died suddenly yesterday in his automobile on North Grand boulevard, will be held at the school, Garrison and Natural Bridge avenues, at 2 p. m. Saturday. It will be attended by teachers and pupils, and by Masonic and Odd Fellows delegations. Arrangements have not been announced in detail, delay having been caused by the necessity for consulting the four daughters, two of whom live in the East. Mrs. Butler lives at 201 Westgate avenue, University City.

An autopsy examination indicated that Principal Butler's death was caused by myocarditis, or chronic heart trouble, and not by the external injuries which were inflicted when his car struck a building, after he had become unconscious and relaxed his hold on the steering wheel.

Walter N. Fuller, assistant principal, is in charge of the high school.

'SPITE' FENCE CASE IN COURT

Mrs. Stetson's Suit Against Scientist Church Is Heard.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 23.—The action of Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, formerly a dominant figure in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, for a permanent injunction against the church to prevent building a 15-foot wall between her residence and the edifice, was before Supreme Court Justice Burr today. Mrs. Stetson alleged that erection of the wall would shut out light from her residence and detract from the architectural beauty of the edifice, erected some years ago by her and her students at a cost of $1,250,000. The Board of Trustees deny that spite is involved.

Mrs. Stetson, who was formerly first reader in the church, withdrew several years ago and retained a large following.

BRIDEGROOM, 70, ENDS HIS LIFE

Bride Says He Told Her of Eating Poison Tablets.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 23.—Elbert H. Eakle, 70 years old, a business man of Fort Worth, Tex., died at the Pacific Hospital today a suicide, according to the report of Chief Deputy Coroner William McDonald.

Detectives said that Eakle, who was a bridegroom of two months, was taken to the hospital last Saturday night, as a result of eating a deadly poison, and that his condition was discovered by his wife, who is 30 years his junior. According to Mrs. Eakle's story, she first noticed her husband's condition Saturday afternoon when he appeared to be in low spirits. Later, she said, he told her he had eaten three poison tablets several hours previous and had just swallowed 10 more.

WOMAN DIES OF POISONING

Neighbors Who Heard Screams Found Her in Kitchen.

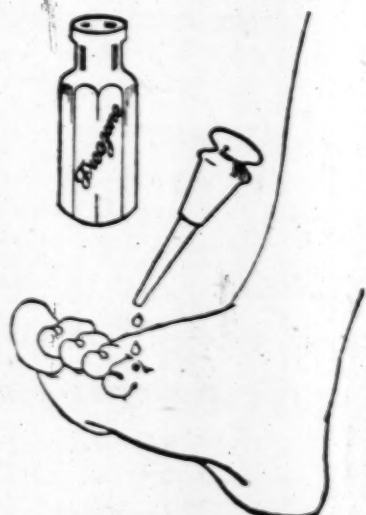

Screams attracted neighbors to the home of William Condon at 2343 A. Gravois avenue, today at 10:30 a. m. Mrs. Condon was found unconscious on the kitchen floor. On the ice box was a large bottle of a poisonous mixture with about one-third of its contents gone.

Mrs. Condon died at the city hospital shortly after being taken there. Poisoning was the cause assigned for the death. Mrs. Condon was alone in the house with her 3-week-old baby girl. Condon said when he left home at 6 a. m. his wife was in good spirits and apparently in good health.

Miss Sallie Scruggs Dies.
Miss Sallie Scruggs, sister of the late Richard M. Scruggs, one of the founders of Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney, died today at her home, 3517 Olive street. She had been an invalid for many years. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

CITY'S ACCEPTANCE OF $53,000 BRIDGE FEE IS DEFERRED

Municipal Commission Decides Upon Course in Regard to Tender Made by Terminal Association.

The Municipal Bridge Commission, consisting of city officials in charge of the Free Bridge, voted today to defer acceptance of a payment of $53,000 tendered by the Terminal Railroad Association for the past use of the west approach of the Free Bridge for switching purposes. The payment offered is at the rate of $1000 a month since October, 1918.

The vote was taken on motion of Mayor Kiel after Frank H. Gerhart had announced to the commission that he would present to the new Board of Aldermen, when it convenes next month, a resolution demanding that the Mayor and the Director of Public Utilities notify the Terminal to stop using the bridge approach, and to restore the tracks to their former condition.

Gerhart, who is a real estate dealer and who has been active in discussions relating to the Free Bridge in the form of a voucher.

The proffered $53,000 payment was in the form of a voucher on the Terminal Association's treasury, and bore a statement that it was to cancel the city's claim against the Terminal and the United States Railroad Administration for use of the facilities in question from Oct. 28, 1918, to March 28, 1923; and further stating that acceptance of the money does not bind the city to acknowledge any right or privilege of the Terminal on the bridge in future, and that the Terminal can be excluded from the bridge at any future time when the city may see fit to do so.

President Alee of the Board of Aldermen, to whom the company sent the voucher following negotiations which took place while he was Acting Mayor, presented it with the opinion of City Counselor Haid that the city would not surrender any right by accepting the payment. The wording of the statement on the voucher was prepared by Haid, under Alee's direction.

Gerhart then began an argument to the effect that the city would be surrendering its rights, despite the wording of the statement. The Terminal, he said, would be recognized officially as a party at interest in the bridge, and it would be difficult if not impossible to dislodge it in future. He said it would take probably $25,000 to restore the tracks to their former condition.

Cities "Council's Opinion."

Gerhart, in emphasizing his statement, declared that he had obtained the opinion of "eminent counsel" that the acceptance of the money, on the terms specified on the voucher, would constitute a surrender of rights on the city's part.

"How could you submit these terms to eminent counsel?" Alee demanded. "They have not been made public until now. Gerhart did not reply in detail to this question, but he warned Alee against 'attempting to compromise the city' in the few days that remain of his term of office.

Director Hooks of the department of public utilities, said personal allies must cease, and Gerhart later apologized to Alee for some of his remarks.

The Mayor, in moving that action be deferred, said he wished to avoid any appearance of unfairness, and that the city might be criticized if it were to take the Terminal's money and then, within a few days, serve it with a notice to vacate. Others agreed that the matter should wait until the new Board of Aldermen had a chance to consider Gerhart's proposed resolution. Alee did not approve of the delay, and remarked that in his opinion, the Mayor should either "fire" the City Counselor and Director of Public Utilities, who had approved the arrangement, or should go ahead with the transaction. The Mayor said it seemed to him a pity to object to what appeared to him to be an unconditional payment of $53,000 into the city treasury, but he repeated that he wished to avoid any appearance of unfairness.

Just think what you've been missing!

MANY people deny themselves the comfort of a hot drink with meals, because they find coffee and tea detrimental to health. For many, the drug element in coffee and tea irritates the nerves, retards digestion and often prevents natural, restful sleep.

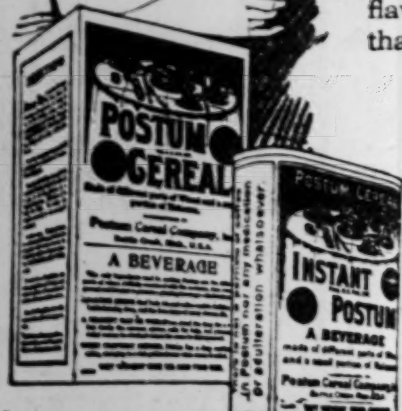

If this fits your case, try Postum. This pure cereal beverage supplies all the pleasure and satisfaction that a hot mealtime drink can give—invigorating warmth, fine aroma and delicious flavor. And you can enjoy it in the full assurance that it cannot harm health.

Postum FOR HEALTH

"There's a Reason"

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared; made by boiling fully 20 minutes.

Made by Postum Cereal Co., Inc., Battle Creek, Mich.

The wallop that wins! You need it in the Battle of Brains and Brawn. Make-Man Tablets—the distinctive IRON TONIC for men and women will build up your reserve of nerve force, tone your system and put pep in your step. Get a 50c box of this wonder worker at your drugstore. The genuine bears the trade mark M. M. T. Easy to take—quick in results. Make-Man Tablet Co., 325 West Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

ARMOUR-MORRIS MERGER COMPLETED

Signatures of 100 Persons, Including One Woman, Bind Agreement.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 22. — Formal merger of Armour & Co. and Morris & Co., two immense meat packing industries, was completed last night when signatures of approximately 100 persons were affixed to the transfer order.

Morris & Co. was purchased by the North American Provision Co., a subsidiary of Armour & Co. of Delaware, in turn a subsidiary of Armour & Co. of Illinois, for approximately $27,450,000, payments to be made in cash and stock.

The signature of only one woman, Mrs. Francis Neilson, widow of Edward Morris Sr., was needed. After signing her name to the transfer documents she hurriedly departed from the smoke-filled conference room. J. Ogden Armour, chairman of the Board of Armour & Co., signed first and within an hour was aboard his private car bound for California. Last night's final conference ended negotiations that started about six months ago, and for the last three weeks have been marked by night and day sessions. During that time public officials were consulted among them Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who has announced the Government will contest the consolidation.

With the liquidation of Morris & Co., Armour & Co. will have total assets of approximately $330,000,000, according to valuable balance sheets of the two concerns. In 1931 the aggregate sales of the two concerns were approximately $330,000,000.

Less than 50 years ago the parent concerns of the two large meat packing industries were operating only on a small scale and in humble surroundings. The merged concern today counts 23 plants and 436 branch houses scattered throughout the world. Officers of Armour & Co. said the bulk of Morris & Co. business would be retained and merged with the Armour interests.

Of the purchase price approximately $2,750,000 will be cash; $3,000,000 par value preferred stock of Armour & Co. of Delaware; $3,000,000 par value preferred stock of Armour & Co. of Illinois; $10,700,000 par value (class A) stock of Armour & Co. of Illinois.

FISS RECONSIDERS REFUSAL TO PERMIT NONPARTISAN PARADE

Announces Decision After Receiving Call From Representatives of Campaign Committee.
Director of Streets and Sewers Fisk today reconsidered his refusal to permit an automobile parade Monday in the line of the non-partisan candidates for the Board of Education.

He had given as his reason the complaint of department officers against parades and the interference with traffic. He quoted an efficiency expert of a department store that $5000 was lost for each minute consumed by a passing parade.

Representatives of the Non-Partisan School Board Campaign Committee called on Fisk today, after which he announced that he had become convinced the cause warranted the parade and issued a permit.

Elevator Repairer Hurt in Fall.
Joseph Kroschinsky, 25 years old, of 1417 North Fourteenth street, an elevator repair man, was seriously injured at noon today in a 20-foot fall in an elevator shaft at the A. C. House Supply Co., 314 North Third street. He suffered a fracture of the skull. He and another man were working on a scaffold beneath the elevator. He slipped when working with a crowbar and fell to the basement.

Track Laborer Killed by Train.
Frank Randson, 59 years old, a track laborer, 1422 O'Fallon street, was killed instantly at 10 a. m. today when struck by a Terminal Railroad switching train on Hall street, south of Bremen avenue. He was working alongside the track. The locomotive and several cars were backing. Witnesses said he appeared to become confused and stepped in front of the train.

PART TWO.

NEUN DENIES CITY IS UNDER POLITICAL "MACHINE" RULE

Declares Republican Administration, Instead of Having Too Many, Has Not Enough City Employees.

PRESENT CONDITIONS DEPLORED BY CURRIE

Democratic Candidate Points to Fact That City Is Spending $91,371 for Janitors, and Only $39,942 for Nurses.

Denial of charges by Democratic candidates that the city government is a "machine" with a great number of employees on the payroll was made last night by Walter J. G. Neun, Republican candidate for the presidency of the Board of Aldermen, in addresses at Republican organization meetings in the Twenty-third and Fifteenth Wards.

"This Republican administration is extremely economical," Neun said. "In fact, it is my observation, it is a little too economical. We don't want to save expense at the cost of the welfare and health of our citizens."

Three meetings were held by Republicans last night, and eight organization meetings are scheduled for tonight. This is taken as an indication that the Republican organization is putting more vigor into its campaign, which started in a perfunctory manner. The President of the Board, 14 Aldermen from even-numbered wards and six members of the Board of Education are to be elected.

Debate at City Club. Neun, in Currie, Democratic candidate for the presidency of the board, and Neun debated the issue of minority representation in government, injected in the campaign by Democratic candidates, before the City Club at noon today.

Currie said the minority was without representation under the present administration. He declared partisan control should have no part in city affairs, and that the municipality should be governed by all the people, and not by a "machine."

Neun asserted one party should be in power, to fix responsibility. "If elected I will represent both the majority and the minority—but the minority can go to the polls and vote Tuesday," he said.

William Brown, American Labor candidate, spoke urging minority or proportional representation. City Institutions Visited.

Neun last night stated he had visited several of the institutions to see how many persons were employed there. He declared there was not room enough for patients at the city hospital and that the present staff of nurses and physicians was "buried all the time, and more are needed."

"I asked them if they were questioned about their politics when employed," he said, "and they replied 'absolutely not.'"

He said the city formerly let contractors for garbage disposal to private contractors at $150 a ton, but now was using an "industrial" to dispose of the garbage and estimated this would save the city $10,000 a year. Figures presented by another speaker varied on the cost, placing it at $400 a ton.

Neun, who has asked for a lot of silly questions, and has declared I am a forerunner to the election of Mayor Kiel to a fourth term in 1935, said Neun, "I haven't talked to the Mayor 15 minutes in the last two months and he has not told me he was going to run."

"I'll tell you how I stand on that question. I hope the best man put up by the people for Mayor in 1935 will win."

are to be voted upon at next Tuesday's city election, when the voters will choose a president and 14 members of the Board of Aldermen, and six members of the Board of Education.The blanket ballot, first used in the Congressional, State and local election last November, will be used.
The aldermanic tickets of the Republican, Democratic and American Labor parties will appear in parallel columns, and the candidates for the Board of Education, under the heading, "Nonpartisan Ticket," will be in a fourth column.In voting on the aldermanic
tickets, the voter can indicate a straight party ballot by marking a cross in the circle at the head of the list. If the voter wishes to vote for one candidate, or more, on another ticket, he may mark crosses in the squares at the left of their names,
and his vote will count for those thus especially marked, and otherwise it will count for the candidates

candidates, the voter must cross-mark those for whom he wishes to vote, four for full-year terms, one for a 4-year term and one for a 2-year term. There is no circle on the Board of Education ticket, and it cannot be voted as a whole, and without special marking of individual names, as the aldermanic
tickets can.The candidates for Aldermen from the 14 even-numbered wards, and for President of the board, were nominated at the primary March 9.
There were contests for 10 Republi-

for the nomination for President of the board. There was no contest for any nomination on the Democratic ticket or the American Labor ticket.Facts about the three candidates for the office of President of the Board of Aldermen were printed in the Post-Dispatch March 17. The Republican ticket, headed by Walter J. G. Neun and Dwight D.

A net increase of $17,033,422 in the assessed valuation of Missouri's farm lands was voted yesterday by the State Board of Equalization. The total assessed value of farm lands in the State, including that increase, is $3,969,816,121. The total is practically the same as for last year. The assessed value per acre is higher this year, but the number of acres assessed as farm lands has appreciably diminished by opening of subdivisions near cities.The Board of Equalization voted increases of 5 or 10 per cent over the assessment reported by the State

NEW TURKISH PARLEY IN APRIL

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, March 29.—The peace negotiations between the allies and Turkey will be resumed at Lausanne
some time between April 15 and 20.
This announcement was made today
by the secretariat which the powers left at Lausanne at the conclusion of the recent conference.As when you loaned your votes to James A. Reed last November.
He again related how he happened
to put a slogan, "I favor light wines
and beer," on his campaign card before the primary election, March 9.
"It was more or less a joke," Baur said, "but the fact that I led the ticket in the primary shows you what a slogan will do."FOSTER TESTIFIES

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 29.— William Z. Foster, charged with criminal syndicalism, took the stand in his own defense this morning to describe his work as secretary-treasurer of the Trade Union Educational League.Foster testified he had been a member of the I. W. W., Seamen's Union, Carpenters Union and other organizations. He quit the I. W. W., he said, "because I no longer agreed with its policies and program."Foster continued, "There is an opinion in some circles 'that the Gompers machine is very strong. I told them this is not true, and the machine is strong only because the progressives and radicals are the upper end of the machine. I told them there are hundreds of thousands of strategic offices in the unions going begging because we have no one prepared to take them."Foster denied he had ever seen
the program and constitution of the communist party of America, the call for the convention held last summer,
the convention agenda, new letters of the communist party, or several other documents introduced by the munist school.""Have you ever belonged to any

Shown the questionnaire which the State claims he filled out at the convention, Foster denied ever having seen it before. The answers on the papers are printed in pencil, instead of being written out in long hand.Foster said he attended a meeting

working in the West, he said, he shipped before the mast before he was 24 years old.Foster added that he had taken up a homestead in the West, sold it in 1919 and then went to Europe. On his return he came to Chicago and worked for railroads, becoming business agent for the Railway Carmen's affairs was as an organizer of packing house workers. He told vaguely of his work as director of 200 work-

which the State contends is "Section political faction, but has members of various political leanings.Foster said he had joined the I.

W. W. 14 years ago but had been a member only a year.Foster testified that since then he had maintained an attitude of "general disapproval" of the I. W. W. In fact, he continued, he had been an bers of the City Counselor's staff are provided in an ordinance, and amendments, now in the hands of the Legislation Committee of the Board of Aldermen, which was introduced originally to create a special staff of attorneys to handle property condemnation suits in connection with the $87,372,500 bond issue public improvement program.This is the first ordinance introduced providing departmental salary increases in connection with the bond issue. One of the amendments,

if adopted, would authorize the City Counselor to employ four or five attorneys at an annual salary of $4000
each, and one attorney at $2400 a year, to carry on the condemnation work.City Counselor Haid said the increases for staff members were included in an amendment to the original ordinance, at the request of the Legislation Committee. Members of that committee, it was said,
expressed the view that men now in the Legal Department should not be paid less than special men employed to carry on the condemnation work.The proposed increases, Haid said, are as follows: Associate Counselors Arthur Bader and G. William Henn,
the latter in charge of the condemnation section, from $4000 to $4500;
Michael J. Hart, from $3800 to $4300; Charles J. Dolan, from $3600 to $3800; and salaries of four other employees, now ranging from $2400
to $2160 annually, would be increased to $2400.Michael J. Hart is a brother of Alderman Luke Hart, chairman of the Legislation Committee, and Bader is a son of Herman Bader, chief of the Court of Criminal Correction,
and well-known Republican politician.Comptroller Noite has indicated
he would be opposed to approving the increases within the Legal Department, when the bill comes over to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and except with reference to Henn and the four men receiving less than $2400 annually. The bill has been discussed in the committee,
but has not been reported out.Need of Special Staff Discussed.
Need of a special staff to handle condemnation suits for improvements in the bond issue program, involving approximately 2000 places of property, with an estimated value of $25,000, was discussed recently at a meeting of city officials. Judges, leaders of the local bar and citizens
at the University Club.Organization of a staff of legal and technical experts was urged to speed up the work, and prevent defrauding of the city through inefficiency of the city through inefficiency of property values. The City Plan Commission reported some jegals firms had been soliciting property owners to contest condemnation, the lawyers to get a percentage of the amount collected from the city.Mayor Kiel at that time declared
"this is a special job and we should get specialists to handle it." It was declared attorneys of the caliber destined could not be obtained for less than $6000 a year, but they would save the city large amounts by checking efforts to boost prices. It was said.Proposal for Fund Approved.
Following that meeting the "Citizens' Supervisory Committee" approved a proposal to provide a fund
of $100,000 for the legal department,
to enable the City Counselor to employ experts, at terms subject to approval by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This staff would be abolished when the condemnation
work was completed.This method of obtaining a staff
was not approved by the aldermanic committee, it was said, and it was suggested the ordinance should determine the salaries. It had been proposed to give Associate Counselor Henn
a salary of $6000 and also increase the present first Associate City Counselor from $5000 to $6000 a year.
These increases met objection, as amendments were prepared fixing salaries for men employed to do the condemnation work, and also providing the increases within the department.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLAT-

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight despots of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely pleasing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

The Night and Day Bank Case.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH.
NOW that we know that all the indictments except one minor charge against an important factor in the Night and Day Bank case have been dropped, I wonder whether anyone knows when another dividend can be expected—if at all. Isn't it a glorious feeling to know that some in our midst can get by with even such a disreputable affair as this, which has caused and still is causing grief, worry and misery in many cases, and at least inconvenience and aggravation in all cases?

I believe that it is high time that honesty in all things be practiced, and that our Judges and others in charge hold people strictly to the spirit as well as the letter of the law, and not allow some one to go free because of some petty, technical reason. Persons found guilty of such crimes should be treated as criminals, not as a form of revenge, but mainly as an example to others.

Since this unfortunate Night and Day Bank case, there have been numerous newspaper accounts of similar cases. I believe that if each and every one of the directors of that bank, irrespective of whether they held public office or not, and the cashier, had been given a just and speedy trial, other cases would have been avoided, but in this case of ours, lawlessness protrudes from every angle, and there is no St. Louis man who can truthfully say that he believes the matter was handled just as he would have liked to see it handled had he been a depositor or even a disinterested person. The voiding of the indictment against one of the officials of this bank is surely an imposition on our rights, and it is surely folly to allow such a cold, barefaced and open crime as this to go unpunished.

ONE WHO IS INTERESTED.

Women Must Vote.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH.
It is a matter of general comment that the women voters of St. Louis, as a rule, have ceased to vote. The novelty of voting has worn off. They seem to have no more regard for the right than they have for a last season's bonnet. In the coming April election the women's votes are urgently needed. Only that vote can defeat Chauncey Kruger, whom, as one of the three K's, they once defeated, and only that vote can elect Dwight F. Currie as president of the Board of Aldermen.

A WOMAN.

Why He Wants an Hour.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH.
THE letter signed J. in today's paper takes the bun. When this man says that it is a fact that we have dog days in St. Louis, and that it takes some time to cool off—we all know that, and that's what we want that extra hour at night for, so we can go home, wash our face and hands, sit down, read the Post-Dispatch and cool off. And mother can get her supper done and the dishes washed one hour earlier, and we can go to the park and hear the band concert or watch the kids in the swimming pool and enjoy it. Let the rich guy sweat his head off playing golf. We should worry about him. You can't get any sleep until after dark, anyhow.

Now, Mr. Editor, you just do all you can for this daylight saving law, and see how many poor workmen will enjoy it. It is the rich bird that doesn't want us in the park, or doesn't want us to have this hour extra in the evening.

THOMAS KAIN.

Wants Her Tennis in the Morning.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH.
WHY, oh, why, are some of the people clamoring for an additional hour of hot sunlight during our summer months? In the hot summer, I am always eager for the sun to set, for it is only after sunset that the heat abates. I am as fond of out-door sports as any normal, modern girl, but after business hours I cannot enjoy a game of tennis in the sun. I play my game of tennis in the early morning, from 6 o'clock to 7 o'clock. It's cool then. Why can't others do this? Why should the general public be inconvenienced by the whims of a few? If certain big organizations favor daylight saving, it would be practical for them to begin working an hour earlier each day.

SOMEBODY'S STENOGRAPHER.

Cruel Woman.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH.
IT was with considerable indignation that I read your article in this evening's paper regarding the "scolding of a dog." How is it possible for any human being, much less a woman, to be so cruel? Words are inadequate to express my opinion of that woman. I can only shudder at the possibilities of such a character as a life companion to any man or as a possible mother to children.

INDIGNANT READER.

GO AFTER THE GANGSTERS.

The proposal of R. C. Frampton, whose store windows were shot up by gangsters in a running automobile battle on Locust street, that a fund be raised to aid in the arrest and prosecution of gangsters is excellent. Diplomatic negotiation between the police and gang leaders has limits. If good Father Dempsey can bring the gangsters to repentance and induce them to abandon their lawless and murderous practices much will be gained. But so far truces have not proved binding. They have lulled the authorities rather than the gangsters into a sense of false security and inaction.

There can be no compromise with crime and no alliance with criminals. Murder and deliberate outlawry, which not only violate the laws but menace the lives and property of citizens must be put down with the strong arm of law. The criminals must be punished. They cannot, without the greatest danger to law and order, be treated as sovereign powers, to be kept in restraint by agreement. They must be forced to respect law and life and the rights of others.

The offering of large rewards for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of criminal bandits; the aiding of the police in any way that will be useful in seeking evidence of crime, and the employment of special prosecutors of ability and experience to help in the prosecution of offenders would be salutary and might bring effective results.

If the police were relieved of numerous tasks growing out of the attempted regulation of the conduct of noncriminal citizens and could concentrate on the big task of restraining crime and arresting criminals, something towards the restoration of law and order might be accomplished. The kind of cleaning up the city needs now is the cleaning up of the criminal element, the burglars, highwaymen, robbers, thieves and gunmen. That is the big task to which the police force should be devoted and which should enlist the aid and co-operation of citizens. The best aid citizens can offer is to put all needed resources in the hands of the police and the courts.

SENATOR REED'S DESPAIR.

Addressing the Kansas City Bar Association Sunday night on "The Menace of Centralization," Senator Reed of Missouri digressed to speak disparagingly of the Court of International Justice. He is quoted as saying: "To talk about a world court, composed of the representatives of the various nations of the earth, to settle the controversies of countries is absurd. You can't put gowns on prejudiced Judges and expect to get a court of justice."

So far as the moral potency or impotency of court costumes is concerned, the point is not worthy of debate, just as the sartorial figure which the Senator deliberately chose is an unworthy bit of rhetorical trickery. The real insignia of the judicial office under discussion—and of any judicial office—are the oaths of the incumbents and the high responsibilities which they undertake.

It may, in all conscience, be said that if the men of professional eminence and irreproachable character who are selected for the bench of the World Court cannot rise above their prejudices and render just decisions, then justice cannot be looked for in any tribunal. If Senator Reed sincerely believes that the World Court is incapable of deciding the issues which come before it impartially and according to the facts and the law, by what token can he profess faith in the judgments, say, of our Supreme Court, or of any other court?

Finally, if the nations cannot settle their differences according to right and reason, then what process of solution does Senator Reed offer? Does he take the position that humanity's hope to be freed from the scourge of war is a vain dream? Is it his conviction that periodically the youth of the nations must kill and be killed because statesmen cannot devise a rational method for adjusting disputes? If that is his fixed conclusion, then Senator Reed cuts a sorry figure of incoherent pessimism. He damns civilization to destruction and mankind to despair.

HOW THE "SLIDING SCALE" WORKS.

Mr. Harding cuts a heroic figure writing from St. Augustine to the chairman of the Tariff Commission to investigate the "possible relation between skyrocketing sugar prices and the tariff." The St. Augustine dispatch, however, is supplemented by a sardonic bulletin of the Associated Press from Washington stating "it was indicated that at least six months would elapse before the results of the Tariff Commission's inquiry could be made known."

This is to say that it will take the administration till October, after the close of the canning season, to locate the profiteer. Meanwhile, according to Representative Cole of Iowa, value at the rate of $10,000,000 a year will be extorted from the American people for every cent of the excess over a fair price. What will happen is indicated by what has already happened as told in the Wall Street Journal.

The recent rise in sugar prices has been a boon to several Michigan beet sugar companies. The Michigan Sugar Company, largest in the Middle West, departing this year from its usual custom of selling out stocks as quickly as possible after the close of the manufacturing season, sold over 30,000,000 pounds. The other day it sold 4,000,000 pounds at $8.80, gaining nearly 2 1/2 cents a pound more than the normal profit. The total gain was close to $100,000. On the whole carry-over, it is estimated that it has gained perhaps $750,000 that was not expected Feb. 1.

In six months, according to the Fordney-McCumber-Harding "sliding-scale" tariff system, we shall know approximately how many hundreds of millions we have been gouged during the investigation.

The President simply cannot believe, however, that the new tariff bill is responsible for the present state of the sugar market. But why deny the tariff credit for the very result which Senator Smoot sought in behalf of the Utah beet sugar interests?

DEMOCRATIC FINANCES.

The national Democratic organization scheme to make systematic collection of $10 in two payments from each member of small clubs organized with this end in view for a 1924 campaign fund may be politically effective, but whether the general public will benefit by this ostensible democratization of campaign contributions remains to be seen.

In politics fire must be fought with fire. The Democrats, to cope with the party of wealth, must have funds. It is better that they take them from the people than from capitalized interests. The Republican party has been tied to big business. But how much better off will be the Democratic party if it ties itself to the small, favor-seeking politician class?

The nation is tired enough of a big business government. It would not be relieved, however, by a yap government such as we have in Missouri when the parties fight over the spoils. Progressive Democrats can prevent the mortgaging of their party to small-fry interests if they begin early enough. The best partisanship in the long run is that which cultivates public favor by giving the public honest, progressive government.

A WIZARD'S JOB.

Mr. E. H. Cherrington of Westerville, O., chairman of the National Executive Committee of the Anti-Slavery League, has compiled figures showing that prohibition is a financial success. Mr. Cherrington, we suppose, is happily placed in his present office, but a higher opportunity, it seems to us, is calling him. The Republican National Committee needs Mr. Cherrington. That committee is now asserting, with a lot of emphasis, that the present tariff law has nothing to do with the soaring price of sugar. But the consumer doesn't believe it, or, if he does, he is not especially pleased with the information.

The crisis requires different treatment. It ought to be driven in on the consumer, with bright, cheery, beguiling figures, that sugar today is actually cheaper than it was before the Fordney-McCumber tariff law was passed; that, instead of being robbed, the consumer is sharing in the spoils.

Is there a magician anywhere capable of performing that feat? Mr. Cherrington is our candidate. Any man who can browbeat figures into proving prohibition a financial success can work any mathematical miracle which a distressed cause may desire. The Republican National Committee should, therefore, conscript the wizard from Westerville.

Lenine's health is said to be improving, but it is admitted that the illustrious red is still far from the pink.

Sir: This little item may interest your readers. I don't know what to call it, but "The Jewish Way of Beating the Bridge Arbitrator or Monopoly" would be appropriate. Anyway, last Monday night I was invited to ride across the river by a St. Louisian who has his business on this side. There were three of us in the machine. We reached the tollkeeper's shack at the east end, so my host put a coupon out of his book of 100 which the Terminal is kind enough to sell for $11.50 to those who are fortunate enough to have the $11.50 at one time. One coupon is good for driver and car, but is not good for a truck. For each additional passenger you pay a nickel, so I volunteer the payment of a dime for the young lady sitting in front and myself. I forgot to add that it costs 35c to cross the bridge one way for driver and machine if you do not have a book of coupons and a like amount for a truck. Imagines our surprise when the toll collector refuses to accept the little red coupon worth 11 1/2c on the grounds that my host had three small packages in the car, and therefore the Dodge sedan became a TRUCK, and it would be necessary to pay 35c in cold cash or we shall not pass. Now Mr. Novack, at the wheel, and who hails from the same Russian village as I do, is no one's fool or he would not have accumulated as much as he did in the short time he has been in this country, so told Badge No. 7 to go to hell, and turned towards the Free Bridge. We had reached the point where the famous $40,000 holdup took place last week when an idea evolved. The car was stopped and we had a conference. We would return to the tollkeeper's shack. One of us would get out of the machine and take the "heavy" bundles with him and pay a nickel for "walking" the bridge. Before long, No. 7 greets again. I get out of the car right in front of the watchdog of the Terminal, taking the bundles with me. Mr. Novack hands him the little red coupon worth a few cents, and walk past the second toll collector's a few feet away, and there the machine picks me up, much to the disgust of No. 7. In other words, we beat him at his own game. Terminal employees are taught to take advantage of the niceties and charge all the traffic will bear; we took advantage of the technicality that a "pedestrian" can "carry" even a ton of coal and not pay the usual 20c, by carrying the three bundles a few feet and continuing our journey by machine. The joke was on the Terminal this time.

MUNICIPAL ARCHITECTURE.

From the Survey.
IS the skyscraper done for? A writer in the Journal of the American Institute of Architects asserts that with the general adoption of zoning laws with height restrictions the "race into the sky" is virtually over. But Harvey W. Corbett, one of the architects of the beautiful Bush Terminal Building in New York, told the Architectural League the other night that the skyscraper was just entering a new and more splendid phase. The law in New York restricts the height of construction on three-fourths of a given plot, but leaves the builder free to go as far into the air as he likes on the remaining one-fourth. While high buildings will therefore be unprofitable on an ordinary lot, once the size of the parcel is increased to a point where one-fourth of the total represents a profitable unit of floor space with regard to stairway and elevator requirements, the way is clear for the erection of new Woolworth or Metropolitan towers—or even a greater. Mr. Corbett points out that the requirements of the law govern the general contour of such buildings, and that a new and authentic American style will result. Since the life of a skyscraper is not much more than 30 years, the continuous process of replacement will soon alter greatly the aspect of the congested office districts of our large cities.

RACIAL PREJUDICE IN COLLEGES.

From the Nation.
IT is an encouraging fact that despite the inclination to discriminate against Jews which manifests itself here and there in our colleges, the very people who whisper about the "Jewish invasion" and suggest limitation in private are ashamed publicly to defend their position. Just what happened at the meeting of the Senior Council at Syracuse University we do not know. The question of limitation of Jews was discussed; it does not much matter how. The significant thing is that the chancellor and students fall upon each other's necks in an ecstasy of denial. Reports from Cambridge indicate that while the Gurry is not all over, Harvard is becoming a little ashamed of itself for having taken President Jewells' fears so seriously. After all, the old American tradition is not dead, and the discussion has made many educators beside President Judson of the University of Chicago realize that "an institution of learning is primarily for those who want learning, without regard to sex, race or social status."

THE WORLD'S SUPPLY OF IRON.

From the Rocky Mountain News.
THE warnings of the reforestation enthusiasts regarding the fast-widening timber supply have long been with us, but it has remained for Gustav Lindenthal, an engineer of national reputation, to sound an alarm note in an entirely different direction. As the designer of the proposed Huxton River bridge in New York City, Mr. Lindenthal's word carries unusual weight. And it was in connection with this engineering feat that he made his prediction. "Within the last 10 years the price of steel has almost doubled, the available supply of iron in the world is slowly but surely decreasing," he was quoted as saying. "There may be improvements in the uses of newer materials for some parts of bridges, but in the main, it is safe to assert that we are about to say the last in iron bridge building. Although the twentieth century will go down in history as the great era of steel bridge building, there is little doubt that the year 2000 will see the end of these projects. By that time iron will have become too costly because of the diminishing supply of ore."

It is an interesting prospect which this matter-of-fact statement offers for posterity. Steel plays an important part in almost every phase of our modern civilization, from railroads to newspapers and door knobs. Substitutes will be found if Mr. Lindenthal is right in his estimate.

Ballade Libre.

Let us have freedom
Where there is none. Why Should the fair French forms appear stiffly corseted, Cramped,
Impeded by rhyme
And meter, and such-like Gear—with a minut step Antique,
Severe?
Shape the ends
To your quatrains rough! Obscure
clams
Heed not the fear! Let's quit writing this bourgeois stuff!

In days gone by, when the rules
I heeded—rules so numerous, strict
And queer—I'd toll and toll.
And I once succeeded in writing balllades—
About five a year. But now that m-muse,
Lobbed-haired,
Goes freer, an hour or so apiece
Is enough. Is not the moral?
Perfectly clear? Let's quit writing
This bourgeois stuff!

Strong hands have seized upon Art
And freed it—lifted it up
From the limited sphere of law and order,
And ruthlessly weeded out the offenders,
Though quaint and dear. They claim
It is simpler
And more sincere. Nobody, so far as I know,
Their bluff. Not to do likewise
Is lunacy sheer! Let's quit writing this bourgeois
stuff.

Prince!
From your watch-tower of wit au-tore sounds a voice
With an accent gruff:
"It's a ballade! It must STAY RIGHT HERE!" (Let's quit writing this bourgeois stuff!)

ALLIE KATT.

Magistrate Ryttenberg has had Abram S. Raylinson for trial on the charge that he outraged public decency because, as secretary of the Independent Artists, he had humiliated what was termed an offensive picture. "Fanning" said a decent sympathizer, "was too good for it."
Why, Little Girl—We Didn't Know
You Cared.
(Miss Peggy Wood, on "The Ideal Man.")

"The man I like best is so big
his mind and his heart that you fo-get all about whether he is tall or short, stout or lean. Still, if philosophers tell us, it is physical is just an expression of mental, then my ideal man is rather tall and slender, has a fine shape
head, interesting features and peculiarly expressive eyes."
"He has idealism and a sense of humor. He likes music and poetry. He doesn't think Hamlet was insane, he boast that he has never read it."
Bible. He has the proper perspective on his relation to the universe.
My ideal man is a poet—in his head
—whether his business is selling bonds or building bridges."

So there you are, aspiring suitor.
Perhaps you stand a chance with fair Peggy if you have the few quintations outlined.

By the way, Grosset & Dunlap have just issued a new edition of "Main Street," that much talked-of book by A. S. M. Hutchinson.—Boller plate in Pall Mall Gazette.

Maybe that's why Sinclair Law
has decided to live in London.

It was Mr. Sing Hemming
Penn States, "I, who wrote 'Tobacco is a nasty weed, I like it,'" whom for its use in "Go-Go," solicited a pair of tickets for the show. And this—maybe they'll see him a box—is his parody of himself.
Old Whiskey had an awful sting.
I liked it.

It made the landscape buck a wing.
I liked it.
Even when the wagon would dis-
ting.
And I'd ride to town on a coope-
wing.
And I'd get 10 days an' everything
I liked it.

"I can't get out of my head," S. interrupts to confide, "my verse
of a 'Robin Hood' chorus:
"Then hey, for the merry
woods, say I,
And hey, for the bedroom bliss."

The Grooming Board.
I'd as soon munch the wares of wooden nutmeg plant
As taste for an instant a bit of egg plant.

Maybe they could get Mrs. M. lory to star in this new play, "I Love Set."

Mileage, security, freedom from trouble—every motorist wants these qualities in a tire. Because the new Goodyear Cord with the beveled All-Weather Tread affords them in surpassing measure, its popularity is growing by leaps and bounds. The tread on this new tire is semi-flat instead of round; the blocks of this tread are reinforced at the base by rubber ribs and are beveled at the outer edges of the design. These features, together with a new and remarkably efficient rubber compound, result in a kind of performance that we have never seen in any earlier type of tire. If you want smooth and trouble-free riding, together with a service that is the standard of tire service the world over, be sure you get the new Goodyear Cord.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Cords with the beveled All-Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

GOOD YEAR

SPECIAL SERVICES TO MARK GOOD FRIDAY

Three-Hour Period Observance
in Churches and Meetings
in Theaters.

Observance of Good Friday, commemorating the crucifixion of Jesus on Calvary, will begin at noon tomorrow, and will continue through the afternoon and evening.

Following the request of a committee in which both the Catholic church and Protestant denominations are represented, some business concerns will excuse, between noon and 3 p. m., such employees as wish to give the time to religious exercises. By order of Mayor Kiel, this privilege will be granted to employees in the various city departments.

Meetings Downtown.

Meetings in downtown theaters, from 12:15 to 1 p. m., have been arranged as follows:

American Theater, 619 Market street, Dean Fritz of Concordia Seminary, speaker. (In Lutheran Lenten series.)

Capitol, 101 North Sixth street, Prof. W. Arndt of Concordia Seminary.

Columbia, 425 North Sixth street, Bishop F. F. Johnson presiding; the Rev. Dr. John W. MacVicar, speaker.

Criterion, 207 North Broadway, the Rev. Dr. C. E. Jenney presiding; the Rev. Dr. W. C. Bittling, speaker.

Garrick, 513 Chestnut street, the Rev. Dr. C. W. Tadlock presiding; Bishop William F. McDevell of Washington, speaker. (In Church Federation Lenten series.)

Lysie, 114 North Sixth street, the Rev. J. P. Meyer presiding; the Rev. Dr. William Crowe speaker.

Rainbow, 107 North Broadway, the Rev. Dr. W. B. Lampe presiding; the Rev. Dr. R. H. Schuest speaker.

Variety, 5 North Broadway, the Rev. Dr. L. M. Hale presiding; the Rev. Dr. George A. Campbell speaker.

Observance in Churches.

In Catholic and Episcopal churches generally, the three-hour period, beginning at noon, will be especially observed. This "Tre Ore" service at St. Francis Xavier's Church, Grand and Lindell boulevards, draws a large gathering annually.

The three-hour service at Christ Church Cathedral will be conducted by Bishop Fawcett of Quincy, Ill. At 3 p. m. the cathedral bells will toll 23 times, to mark the years of the earthly life of Jesus. "The Seven Last Words" will be sung by the cathedral choir Friday night.

Stainer's oratorio, "The Crucifixion," will be sung at the First Congregational Church, Wydown boulevard and University lane, at 4:30 p. m. The same oratorio will be rendered at night by the choir of Shaw Avenue Methodist Church, corner of Tower Grove avenue.

At the Third Baptist Church, at 3 p. m., Mrs. Victor South, chairman Demarest will speak to women on "The Virgin Mary." Mrs. Demarest is a granddaughter of William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army.

Will Broadhead, Sermon.

A Good Friday sermon by the Rev. Dr. Jesse R. Kellems will be broadcast by radio at 4 p. m. from Station W M A Y, at the King's Highway Presbyterian Church.

At Union Avenue Christian Church, corner of Enright avenue, where Dr. Kellems is conducting a revival, he will preach at night on "The Blood of the Cross." A communion service will follow the sermon.

A Good Friday sermon will be preached by D. L. Coale, evangelist, who is conducting meetings at Cabanne Methodist Church South, Hartner and Goodfellow avenues.

Stephen A. Hahn and his wife, natives of the Holy Land, will give a costume talk, with moving pictures, at a meeting at the Ballroom Y. M. C. A. at night. L. G. Scott, vice president of the Wabash Railroad, will preside, and there will be no admission charge or collection.

TC-1, ARMY TRAINING CRAFT, TO BE SENT TO SCOTT FIELD

Largest Nonrigid Dirigible Ever Built in America to Make Trial Tests First.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The army training dirigible TC-1, the largest nonrigid dirigible ever built in America, will make a nonstop flight from Akron, O., to Niagara Falls, N. Y., and return, upon completion of trial tests now under way at Akron. It was announced also that the craft would then be sent to Scott Field, Ill., for a preliminary station.

The ship, first of three of its type being built by an Akron manufacturing concern, will be used for the training of airship pilots in preparation for several long distance flights.

A feature of the ship's construction is that of specially arranged containers designed for both helium and ordinary gases. The envelope was a gas capacity of 200,000 cubic feet, is 195 feet long and 50 feet high. The suspended car contains accommodations for a crew of six when helium is used and 10 when hydrogen is used.

Two motors of 150 horse power each are expected to give the ship a maximum speed of 60 miles an hour and a maximum rate of climb of 1,000 feet per minute will be possible within a ceiling of 7,500 feet.

The TC-1 is equipped with carrying devices for one 1200-pound, four 400-pound and eight 100-pound bombs.

AMERICAN HISTORY FOR CHILDREN

Of $100,000,000 Damage Done in Georgia, Sherman Admitted, Four-Fifths was the Result of Vandalism Which He Had Not Tried to Restrain.

A TRAIL OF DESTRUCTION.

By HENDRIK VAN LOON,
Author of "The Story of Mankind."

GEN. SHERMAN and the Union Army were in Atlanta, and Gen. Hood, the Confederate commander, tried to lure them out again, by advancing slowly toward Nashville. But Sherman refused to be lured. He sat tight where he was and sent Gen. Thomas, with a strong force, off to protect Nashville. In the middle of December, 1864, a decisive battle was fought between Hood and Thomas, a little way south of the city. In this battle, the Confederate army was practically annihilated, and after that there was no further fighting in this region.

On the fifteenth day of November, Gen. Sherman set out from Atlanta upon his famous march "through Georgia to the sea." The South was nearly exhausted. Aside from Hood's army, which was fully occupied in the vain attempt to wrest Nashville from Gen. Thomas, every fighting man the South could raise was up in Virginia with Lee's army. There was no one left to oppose Sherman. It was a long way from Atlanta to the sea, but the army marched rapidly, and arrived before Savannah on the tenth day of December. They had moved in parallel columns, with a front 60 miles wide, and behind them they had left a broad path of utter desolation. In his report to the Government, Sherman estimated the damage done to the State of Georgia at $100,000,000, and admitted that four-fifths of this was due to wanton acts of vandalism committed by the soldiers. Yet he had not tried to hold them back, for it seemed to be part of Northern policy at the moment to make the South suffer, that she might better realize the enormity of her crime in wishing to leave the Union. Northern soldiers treated the Southerners as members of an alien race, forgetting for the time being that the whole idea involved in the war was to bring them back to stand beside them once again in brotherly love beneath the flag which fluttered at the head of their column. They chose a very poor way to make the Southerners love that flag.

Sherman remained in Savannah (his entrance into the city had not been contested) until the first of February, and then turned north, up the coast. As South Carolina had been the first State to secede, an even worse punishment was meted out to her upon this northward march than had been Georgia's portion. The Capitol of the State, at Columbia, was burned to the ground, and all through the Northern states the elated populace rejoiced and cheered for Sherman.

On the sixteenth of March, Gen. Joseph Johnston, who had been put in command of all the troops in the Carolinas, made an attempt to check the Union advance, but was beaten back. Three days later he tried it again, with the same result. On the twenty-third of March, Sherman and his army entered the town of Goldsboro, N. C., near the northern boundary of the State and less than 200 miles south of Richmond.

Thus ended the glorious and victorious campaign of the Union armies in the west. Here and there they had for a while met, with stubborn resistance, but not once had they suffered real defeat. They had swept clean the west and the south of the Confederacy, and were now ready to join hands with the victorious armies of the east.

20 MEN CONVICTED IN BUNCORING CASE; JURORS SUBPENAED

Verdict Follows 150 Ballots Taken in Five-Day Session—Swindle Victims From All Parts of U. S.

By the Associated Press.
DENVER, Colo., March 29.—Following conviction yesterday afternoon of 20 alleged members of a nationwide confidence ring, who have been on trial in District Court for 10 weeks, interest today centers in the county grand jury, before which the jurors were summoned to appear at 9 a. m. Subpenas were served on the jurors immediately after they had given their verdict and had been discharged shortly before 6 o'clock last night. The grand jury inquiry is believed to be in connection with alleged attempts to influence members of the jury during the trial.

The 20 men found guilty after a week-long session of four nights and five days in the jury room, received the verdict calmly and without display of emotion. The 20 men, faces penitentiary terms ranging from one to 10 years.

Victims From All Parts of U. S.
The victims of the bunco ring were from all parts of the United States and one, Herbert Gray, lives in Devon, England. He lost $25,000 to the men convicted and made a special trip to England to bring the money to Denver.

The Rocky Mountain News prints an interview with Herman M. Okuly, one of the jurors, in which he declared a bribe of $500 was offered him two days after he was sworn in for service. He refused the offer and that his three other jurors into line, making possible the verdict of guilty. Okuly declared that he informed Judge Dunklee of the alleged attempt to bribe him two or three days after it was made. A man whom he said he would be unable to identify, came to his home and made the offer, he is said to have asserted.

As soon as the three jurors, whom he said, eventually agreed to the verdict after holding out for more than 100 hours, had refused to participate in any argument and repeatedly made excuses for the defendants instead, are said to have been made by Okuly in the interview.

The verdict, he is quoted as saying, finally was agreed on with the plea for leniency for all the defendants and especially for three of them, as a compromise.

St. Louisan Notified.
District Attorney Vancie, telegraphed the result of the verdict to each of the victims of the bunco ring who came to Denver and were witnesses against the men at the trial. His telegram read: "All 20 men convicted. My thanks to you for your good citizenship."

The telegram went to all parts of the country. One of them was sent to Joseph Fassel of St. Louis.

The men convicted are John Allison, Loum Blonger, Thomas Beach, George Belcher, Walter Byland, A. B. Cooper, Robert B. Davis, William Dougherty, A. W. Duff, J. H. Foster, J. H. French, Jack Hardaway, Louis Mushnick, Steve Olson, A. H. Potts, W. L. Straud, George Walker, George Williams, alias Grove Sullivan; G. H. Williams, C. C. Bailey.

Testimony showed that a total running into hundreds of thousands of dollars had been obtained from tourists lured into betting on horse races and stock speculations, the race tracks and the exchanges existing only in the imagination of the confidence men.

Spectacular Raid Made.
Operating without the aid of Denver police and aided by State rangers and special investigators, the District Attorney made a spectacular raid on Aug. 24 last year, rounding up the men who were brought to trial and several others, and imprisoning them in a church until the raiding squads had completed their work.

Testimony of J. Frank Norfleet of Hale Center, Tex., "champion sucker," who lured the men on, in order to obtain evidence, and the evidence of George (Pen) Remy, one of the men seized in the raid and a confessed member of the ring, who turned State's evidence, revealed the extensive operations of an organized ring.

Blonger, 74-year-old defendant, alleged head of the confidence men, in a statement charged he was convicted on perjured evidence. He declared he had been a resident of Denver for 30 years and never had been in jail before.

ESTIMATE BODY HALTS $200,000 TRACTOR BILL

Garbage Collection Measure Had Been Reported Favorably by Aldermanic Committee.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment today withheld approval of the bill appropriating $200,000 for the purchase of motor tractors and trailers for collection of city garbage. The bill was placed on file.

Although this practically kills the ordinance as a separate measure, Comptroller Nolte of the board said the $200,000 item probably would receive favorable action when included in the regular budget for the fiscal year, the board preferring that it be handled in this way. It was reported out favorably by the Public Utilities Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday.

Director of Streets and Sewers Flak, in a report to the committee upon the operation of six two and one-half ton trailers and one three-ton tractor loaned by a manufacturer to the city for 45 working days, in a test made from Jan. 23 to March 17, said a saving of $170,000 a year was indicated, based upon an annual collection of 55,000 tons of garbage. The report stated the average cost per ton of collection under the present system of using horse-drawn wagons was $3.84, while the test made with the tractors and trailers reduced the cost per ton to $3.72, or more than 45 per cent.

The resolution of Alderman Heckel, introduced last Friday, requesting the State Public Service Commission to speedily decide the United Railways fare case now pending before the commission and reciting that St. Louis is placed at a disadvantage as compared with other cities who have a 5 and 6 cent street car fare, was reported favorably by the committee and will be considered by the whole board late this afternoon.

A bill requiring the installation of watermeters in all homes and business establishments of the city was ordered filed by the committee. Alderman Baur said if meters were installed in the homes of poor people some of them might not bathe regularly, which would create an insubstantial condition in the city.

A bill increasing the license fees charged electrical contractors and providing that all electrical wiring must be installed in conduits in the downtown district, and in residence properly where more than four families reside, which was opposed by the small electrical contractors, was ordered filed by the committee.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE

He Had Complained of Pains About Heart.

Edmond Winkler, 33 years old, a mechanic, who lived at 4844A Warner avenue, was found dead in his garage yesterday by neighbors who said they heard him coughing spasmodically. A physician said death was caused by heart failure.

Winkler had complained of pains in the region of his heart during the last three weeks. Yesterday he stayed home from work to move. His wife and small child had gone on a street car to a new home in Webster Groves, and the furniture was on its way in a van. Winkler had loaded pictures and other household valuables into his Ford car and planned to drive out to the new home. The effort to crank his machine apparently induced a more severe attack of heart trouble, which proved fatal.

ACQUITTED IN BIG GEM THEFT

Chauffeur Was Charged With Harboring Schoellkopf Robbers.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Charles J. Hughes, chauffeur, was acquitted late yesterday by a jury which tried him on an indictment charging him with harboring the robbers who stole $250,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Hugo C. P. Schoellkopf of Buffalo, after a New Year's eve party in this city.

Hughes was the first person to be tried in connection with the theft of Mrs. Schoellkopf's jewels. First charged with robbery, he later was put on trial as an accessory after the fact.

We Take It That the Player Who Tries to Fill George Sisler's Shoes Will Put His Foot in It

Cedric Durst Makes Favorable Impression at First Base for Browns; Gene Robertson Shines

Lee Fohl, in Quest for Understudy for George Sisler, Experiments With Former Outfielder—Pruett, Vangilder Pitch, Browns Win From Wichita Falls.

By J. Roy Stockton,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., March 29.—It is difficult to see grace and skill in any other first baseman after you have seen the one and only George Sisler perform around the initial sack. To Texans the work of Cedric Durst yesterday probably did not look amateurish. Fohl gave the outfielder a chance and there were some pleasing things about Durst's work. He took throws nicely, his tosses around the diamond were satisfactory and of all of the Brownies who have been trying to fill Sisler's shoes, Durst is the most ambitious.

Every day during batting practice he would edge his way toward first and practice taking throws. Finally Manager Fohl took pity on him and borrowed a left-handed first baseman's mitt for Cedric. He had been taking throws with his outfielder's glove until his hand must have been aching.

He looked so good in fielding practice yesterday that Fohl took Collins out of the game and permitted Durst to play the entire game at first. The youngster made one error—on a nasty grounder, caused by his own overzealousness. He fumbled the ball. But aside from that he did very well. He scooped them out of the dust and reached cleverly for wide throws. In view of the bad news about Sisler, perhaps Durst will be worked again.

If there is one thing to be regretted in Durst's case it is that, where he was not sent to a league last year, where he could have played every day. Sitting on the bench all of last season has not improved his skills. He can get out there and play every day he will consider himself a substitute and will play like one. When he plays every day he will develop into a regular ballplayer.

Robertson Gets Chance. That also is true of another youngster who was given a chance in yesterday's ball game, which the Browns won 5 to 2. That youngster is Gene Robertson. Robb's cods the bench most of last year, getting into only a few games. This year he looks good. He ought to be some, however, where he could play regularly.

Of all the youngsters trying for the third baseman's job on the Browns machine, Robertson has the best arm. In yesterday's game he made several brilliant plays. In one case he knocked down two batters, certain hits and got the runner out at first. In one instance the ball hit him in the face, but he pursued it into foul territory and his rifle-like arm retired the runner.

Robertson is a better shortstop than he is a third baseman. With the wonderful Walter Gerber in the squad, there is no chance for Robb at short. But he has entered the fight for a regular position at third and has been hitting the ball harder than last year, but in batting Elber has the advantage over all the third sackers.

Bennett's Misfortune. Herschel Bennett played part of the game in center field. He had only one chance in the field and was unfortunate. He threw a ball to the right, and a line single and tried to throw out a runner at the plate. The straight for the plate. So perfect was the throw that it bounced against the runner just as he stepped on the plate. The ball bounced away and the batter advanced to second before several could recover he ball. Bennett is a great fielder, and is far superior to Jacobson as well as to Elber. His hitting against major league pitchers is still an unknown quantity.

Johnny Tobin continues to hammer the ball. He got three singles in five chances yesterday, all line drives to left field. Tobin is the only member of the squad who has been hitting the ball well.

Speaking of Rough and Ready Fights, Kabby Was Rough and His Opponent Was Reddy

Kabakoff Stops Battling Reddy Cleanly in the Second; Victim Counted Out After Right to Jaw

Eastern Featherweight, Seemingly Handicapped by Local Rule Interpretation, Is Unable to Reach His St. Louis Foe—Kabby Puts on a Genuine "Comeback."

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor Post-Dispatch.

Louis Nouble of New York fought for 13 years under the ring name of Battling Reddy. He had battled the best in the feather and junior lightweight divisions and none had been able to put him down to the canvas for the count—until last night. Then came the end of the world for Reddy.

In the second round of his fight at the First Regiment Armory with Harry Kabakoff, whom he had beaten three or four months ago, the fighter ran into a solar plexus punch that shook him to his toes.

He staggered back, with Kabby crowding him rapidly and with hurrying blows at him with both hands. The Kabakoff right, which carries a good punch, found its mark solidly, as Reddy was retreating, and the survivor of 13 years of hard fighting went down as though struck with a "billy." He rolled under the ropes. Referee Harry Sharpe began the count and Reddy tried feebly to lift himself from the canvas. But the blow had shocked all the power out of him and he was unable to rise until after he had been counted out. Then he was helped to his chair by his seconds.

The crowd loudly cheered Kabakoff, who was celebrating a homecoming to the local fight ring after many months absence. Present at the ring side to observe Kabby's success was Eddie Vandevanter, known as Kid Bandy, who came down from Chicago to give the revived ring game the once over. As usual Bandy had one hand in a sling—this time his left. Bandy, who previously fought several bitter battles with Kabakoff, also had met Reddy and had beaten him in a rough contest.

Rules Handicap Reddy. Reddy, from the beginning, appeared to be laboring under a handicap. He did not appear to be in the best of condition, although he carried little excess weight. The rules enforced by Referee Harry Sharpe also militated against him.

Reddy is a fighter of the old school. He likes to get in close and stop enemy punches by clamping down on the enemy's arms. Left to himself, he would make any bout tough for the referee, as the history of his three previous appearances here will prove. Last night Referee

Sharpe carried out his policy of forcing the boxers to battle in the open, break clean and avoid holding. The rules were beautifully obeyed by all contestants, right down to the main event.

Then the trouble began. Reddy, obeying the instincts of long years, began to clamp down on Kabby's arms. Each time Sharpe would warn him. It must be said for Reddy that he obeyed orders to the best of his ability, although he was plainly unused to this style of fighting. Nevertheless, he crowded Kabby about the ring during the first round, with honors about even, although Kabby was fighting and hitting cleaner.

Kabakoff Very Confident. In the second, after being warned by Sharpe, Reddy proved no match for the confident, fast and well-conditioned Kabakoff. Realizing that he had something on his opponent, Kabby stepped in and, fairly bewildering his foe with blows from both hands, midway through the round, after making Reddy appear to be all at sea, Kabby slipped through a punch to the body that took all the fight out of Reddy. The Kabakoff right came across a moment later and the bout was over. Kabby was officially a "comeback."

The real bout of the evening, in point of cleverness and clean boxing, was that between Mike Kramer and Frankie Omer, both of this city. Omer's showing was greatly pleased the crowd. He is a much improved boy, and although Mike Kramer is a clever lad and a hard shooter with right hand, Omer stepped around him

New York Teams To Bowl Today Expected to Gain Place Near Top in Five-Man Event of National Meet.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 29.—Teams from the East and Middle West were to clash this afternoon and tonight in the playoffs in the American Bowling Congress tournament here.

New York's crack bowling team, the Broadway, were to compete tonight with the Claman Dairy Lunch and the Central Allies five of Indianapolis and other Middle Western teams. Strong competition is looked for from the South Side Millbells of Milwaukee, Span and Kelley of Madison, Commodore Barry of Chicago, Newark Eagles and Thiers's five, of Detroit.

The Gotham men are expected to roll themselves into the lead of the five-men event, or at least among the five leaders.

Leaders in each event remained undisturbed throughout last night's rolling. No exceptional scores were bowled.

Doubles. P. Kolaczek-J. Jacobs, Milwaukee, 1255; O. Klatt-J. Burmeister, Chicago, 1287; L. Osterlander-E. Clayton, Toledo, 1281; W. Rosster-E. Pierce, Chicago, 1276; W. Wehlaus-C. Frank, Louisville, 1276.

Singles. C. Baumgarten, Cincinnati, 724; M. McDowell, Cleveland, 713; W. Elwert, Toledo, 711; F. Wilson, Toledo, 705; C. Schenk, Syracuse, 700.

All Events. M. McDowell, Cleveland, 2003; F. Chalcraft, Buffalo, 1945; C. Mooses, Toledo, 1936; L. Dunn, Chicago, 1922; F. Bower, Duquesne, 1929.

confidently, outpunching Mike all the way. It was the kind of contest that everyone likes, as all the blows were clearly struck and only occasionally did Kramer offend by holding. Omer was not guilty of rule violation once during the bout, so far as could be observed.

Bout Pleases Spectators. A few exhibitions like the Omer-Kramer contest will put the local boxing game back on the right track. Omer gave a perfect demonstration of how to avoid without grabbing hold of the enemy. While Omer had a shade over Kramer, he did not outclass Mike by any means. In the seventh round, in fact, Kramer landed the best blow struck by either man during the eight rounds they fought. It was a straight right to the jaw and Omer's knees momentarily sagged. He recovered quickly, and at the close he had more left than Kramer.

Omer recently came here from Chicago where, with Kid Bandy and Patsy Flanagan, he is one of the stars of Mike Keffe's stable.

Had not Boris Springer, a private at Jefferson Barracks, apprised his hand in the third round, he might have defeated Morris King more decisively in their four-round preliminary. Instead, while he was aggressive in the last round, he was unable to let go his right hand solidly and King was enabled to make better finish.

King was crowded all over the ring by his aggressive foe. Nevertheless, Morris gave a fine account of himself and there was not much margin in the soldier's favor at the finish. This bout, too, was clean and interestingly contested.

retire when asked in the fourth round if he had enough. Although bleeding at the nose and mouth and considerably outclassed, he begged Referee Sharpe to let him continue. His request was granted and he finished the four rounds fighting bravely, but hopelessly to the finish. He got the glad hand from the crowd, of course.

The bouts were all applauded by a crowded house.

OVER 30,000 ATTEND SIX-DAY TOURNAMENT OF CHICAGO AMATEURS

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 29.—Semi-finals and finals were run off last night in the various weight in the amateur boxing tournament of the Tribune Association amateur boxing tournament, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune. Over 30,000 people attended the six-day meet, it was announced. An injunction prohibited police interference with the tournament.

HEAVY TRACK SCHEDULE FOR PRINCIPAL ATHLETES The track athletes of Principia Academy will have a busy season, according to the schedule of contests which has been prepared by Athletic Director Christie. On April 14 the season will open with an intramural track meet. This event will give Coach Kershaw an opportunity to select a team to compete in the coming meets with other schools.

The schedule follows: April 14—Intramural. April 21—Yeastman. April 28—Cleveland. May 7—W. U. Freshmen. May 15—Mississippi Valley Intercollegiate. May 15—Soldan.

Fulton Eligible To Battle Firpo, Muldoon Decides

Tall Boy From Minneapolis May Be Chosen to Replace Lodge in Milk Fund Go.

By BERT GOGUE, Author, Eastern Boxing.

NEW YORK, March 29.—"Doc" Bagley, who piloted Willie Jackson right up to the lightweight championship throne, only to have him collapse, is bringing from Argentina one Angel Rodriguez, who is supposed to have knocked out Firpo, the Demon Angel, in the early days of the giant's career.

Bagley cabled $800 to Argentina yesterday, that this mysterious Rodriguez and wife might embark for the land of the golden opportunities and settle for once and for all the story that Firpo was not knocked out as an amateur.

Bagley says he is the man. Firpo says that he isn't and that the Rodriguez that boxed him married into great wealth and has never donned the gloves since that time.

Firpo tells Rickard that this Rodriguez is far too wealthy to worry about stopping them with his chin for pay.

When Firpo came here he talked of two men by the name of Rodriguez, both having boxed him. Firpo denied that he had ever been knocked out, even as an amateur; but Americans who were there at the time declare that the Demon Angel stopped one with his jaw and went to picking forget-me-nots in stanger.

For one thing, Firpo insists that the Rodriguez that met him the first time was a middleweight. Bagley maintains that the man he is importing weighs 155 pounds. Too bad he isn't on the ground. If he can make his claim stand up he might be the one selected to box Firpo for the milk fund. At any rate, he is coming and then we may all get the truth of that knockout, through an interpreter, no doubt; but the true story just the same.

Fred Fulton Eligible. William Muldoon holds fast to his edict that Farmer Lodge will not be allowed to box Firpo at the milk fund show on May 12. Fred Fulton was added to Muldoon's list of eligibles yesterday. He is strongly in favor of Firpo meeting either Jack Renault or Fulton; and that Jack McAluffe and Tiny Herman go on the same bill and have it out, if only as a means of showing the local fans what they have up their sleeves. The question will be settled today, one way or another. It may even come to pass that Firpo will be withdrawn and some other bout substituted.

$20,000 Purse for Pesek-Zbyszko Go

Kansas City Outbids New York and Chicago; Victor to Meet Champion Lewis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 29.—With a bid of $20,000, Gabe Kaufman, Kansas City wrestling promoter, outstripped New York, Boston and Chicago bidders for John Pesek-Zbyszko mat contest, yesterday, and landed the wrestling "bottle of the century" for Convention Hall on the night of April 12.

The signed contracts of both Pesek and Zbyszko will be in Kaufman's hands today, according to an announcement by Kaufman last night. The guarantee is the largest ever offered wrestlers for a Kansas City contest, and the card is practically certain to attract the largest crowd of the season.

The terms of the contest call for a finish match, the winner of two falls out of three, in addition to the victory and the long end of the money, also being assured of a favor of Firpo meeting either Jack Renault or Fulton; and that Jack McAluffe and Tiny Herman go on the same bill and have it out, if only as a means of showing the local fans what they have up their sleeves. The question will be settled today, one way or another. It may even come to pass that Firpo will be withdrawn and some other bout substituted.

FLANAGAN TO OPPOSE EILE ON CARD WITH LYNCH AND GENARO

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 29.—The card on which Joe Lynch, world's champion bantamweight pugilist, and Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, will appear here the night of April 4 in a 10-round, no-decision bout, has been completed with the addition of Patsy Flanagan of St. Louis and Jack Eile of Chicago who also will go 10 rounds. Eile and Flanagan will box at 124 pounds.

Lynch's opponent will be Bill (Midget) Smith and Genaro will meet Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind. Lynch and Genaro are due here Sunday.

match with Champion Ed "Strangler" Lewis, whose manager, Billy Sandow, will post a $5000 guarantee to go through with the match upon his arrival here from New York early next week.

Pesek is managed by Maurice Rauman, brother of Sandow (Max Bauman).

Kaufman stated last night that, because of the huge guarantee he was compelled to pay in order to get the match, prices for this show would be increased and every seat would be reserved. Prices will range from $1 to $5, exclusive of war tax.

Dyspeptics! Take Notice!!

The Word Has Gone Forth That Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Reinstate You at the Banquet.

All you gassy, sour stomachs who fear to eat because from acidity you suffer the pangs of indigestion, let it

Ladies and Gentlemen: All Who Are Not Supplied With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Are Out of Luck.

It is known that you find relief from such distress by simply chewing one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals. A host of people have come back to fried eggs and bacon, sausage, doughnuts, baked beans, pie and cheese, steak and onions, cucumbers, cream with coffee and so on, because they discovered that after eating such things, a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet gave the stomach a sweetened alkaline effect and there was no sour, acid, gassy heartburn, belching, pressure and such distress due to indigestion after eating. It is well to take notice of this and to get a 50-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store. Be armed and prepared for the big dinners and banquets.

MODERN MORALS NOT SO BAD, BISHOP SAYS

M. E. Temperance Board Chairman, Here, Seeking Church Unification, Is Not Pessimistic.

The morals of Americans today, young and old, are not so terribly worse than the standard a generation, or two generations, ago. In the opinion of Bishop William F. McDowell of Washington, D. C., chairman of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who is in St. Louis attending a gathering of delegates from his church and the M. E. Church South to evolve a plan of unification.

"After every great struggle there has been a notable apparent laxity in the morals of a people," Bishop McDowell said to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday. "That in a measure, is what is happening in our United States."

"But I am inclined to believe that this so-called 'laxity' is not as wicked as it has been painted. Like Mark Twain, I perhaps believe in this regard as he did about Wagner's music, which he proclaimed was 'better than it sounds.' Flappers are better morally than their appearance would seem to indicate."

In a comparison of present-day morals with those of his own youth, Bishop McDowell, a man of perhaps the late fifties, said the condition now was not so much worse than then. "We are a little more open about it," he said. "Perhaps we weren't as frank then. But our world today is far from the moral depravity we would often believe it to have reached."

Bishop McDowell said prohibition is "as well enforced as any other law," citing for an example the speed laws and laws against holdups and robbery, and added that its enactment has proven "without equal in benefits to our nation."

THE GIRL IN THE CORNER APARTMENT

By MAY CHRISTIE

Copyright, 1922, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

LXIX.—A BEAUTY TREATMENT.

THE CHARACTERS.
CYNTHIA BRANT, country girl, living in a New York apartment she has inherited from an old lady she once befriended.

RUBY ALLISON, her gay and frivolous friend.
ALEC KERR, Ruby's fiancé.
QUENTIN GRAY, an artist friend of Ruby's.

AUNT ELLEN, who keeps house for Cynthia.
MURRAY STEWART, for whom Cynthia is working as a stenographer.

MRS. WAKELAND, friend and rich client of Stewart, who takes a fancy to Cynthia.

VIOLET JERROLD, friend of Murray's.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT.

CYNTHIA had a hot bath in the white-tiled, glass-shelved, nickel-fitted bathroom of Mrs. Wakeland's suite, and then, arrayed in dressing gown and quilted slippers, pondered on which frock to wear for dinner.

"I suppose the black would be more suitable," she asked her friend.

"Hm, I don't know. You brought the blue-and-pink one, with the trails of apple-blossom? If I were you, I'd wear that frock."

You don't look more than 17 in it, and Max Coverdale likes it."

But discretion stopped her. Cynthia was sensitive and shy. She was like a debutante, but infinitely more ingenuous and less "knowing" than the young girls of Mrs. Wakeland's world.

"The blue-and-pink is rather crushed," she was saying, doubtfully.

"I've got an electric iron with me. I'll press it out for you in a jiffy. Give it to me now."

And, sure enough, by the simple process of removing a blanket from the bed, and laying it across a glass-topped writing desk, and fitting the attachment of the little iron into a lamp plug in the wall, the hyacinth-blue-and-shell-pink frock was ironed out, like new!

"The beauty parlor of the hotel is sending up a girl to give my hair a marcelle wave. I'll lead her to you; shall I?"

But Cynthia would have none of it, although she thanked her friend for her kindness.

She brushed out her own naturally wavy locks, and gathered them into a simple knot at the neck. Then, slipping her frock over her head, she fastened it, and was ready.

"Come into my room and talk to me," called Margaret Wakeland gaily. Then, as Cynthia appeared: "You do look sweet, my dear. Poor Rex!"

A tap sounded at the door, and the girl from the beauty parlor entered. She carried two Turkish towels and two fine linen ones, a box of various creams and bottles, and a slab of ice. Also some electrical appliances, and two pairs of curling tongs.

"She thinks I want a face massage," laughed Mrs. Wakeland when the demure young lady had said something quietly. "All right. Go ahead." She nodded her assent.

"Cynthia, you're not at the stage yet where you need it, but this beautifying process will amuse you."

Saying which, she seated herself before a wash basin on a low, cushioned chair, and the beautifying process began.

The nickel tap was turned on in the basin, and water that was almost boiling rushed out at once. The girl dropped one of the Turkish towels in, cautiously rinsed it, shook it out to make it cooler, and then laid it gently on Margaret Wakeland's face.

She had bound her hair back with a big handkerchief to prevent its getting wet. Not a single inch of the lady's face now was to be seen except the extreme tip of her nose.

The steaming process was re-

Here Are Dairy Dishes Both Cheap and Delicious

By Jeannette Young Norton

SPRING is a good time to make the most of dairy dishes, because eggs, milk, cream and butter are at their best and are cheapest at this time.

It is claimed that milk contains the three elements most necessary to human well-being—lime, protein and vitamins. Since this is the case, it is poor economy to do without it or to quibble over the price we city dwellers have to pay to secure the best. Better do without some nonessential and make up the difference on milk. Though many persons do not like to drink milk, nearly everyone likes milk dishes.

The question is frequently asked: "Does cooking destroy the nutritive property of milk?" It does not, although it does alter some of the effects on the system. For instance, liberal use of raw milk prevents scurvy, while boiled milk does not. But with the addition of fruits and grains to the diet any unhappy conditions created by cooked milk are easily dispelled. The least amount of milk a child should drink each day is a pint, and grownups a third of a pint. Dietitians figure and favor as much more as can be afforded.

Dairy products need never go to waste if the cook understands her business. Even a lively thunderstorm won't scare the cream into turning sour if you drop into it a pared carrot.

Milk Soups

Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter and blend in three tablespoonfuls of flour. Add pepper, salt and a tablespoonful of grated onion. Cook, stirring the mixture until smooth. Then add a cupful of milk and cook gently one minute. Add two cupfuls of freshly mashed potatoes and the rest of the quart of milk. Heat to boiling point, stirring constantly. Then strain, add a little finely minced parsley, and serve.

Rice With Cheese Sauce

Boil in the usual way one cupful of rice. Make a sauce of two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour stirred into it, then a cupful of rich scalded milk stirred in a little at a time. When smooth and as thick as desired, add a cupful of grated cheese—stirring until it is melted—and a beaten egg yolk. Arrange the rice on a dish and pour the sauce over it. This makes a good luncheon dish or to serve with chicken.

Cream Tapioca Pudding

Soak four tablespoonfuls of pearl tapioca in cold water enough to cover. Drain and add it to two cupfuls of scalded milk. Cook in a double-boiler until the tapioca is clear and transparent. Add three tablespoonfuls of sugar to the tapioca with a quarter teaspoonful of salt. Add the same amount of sugar to the beaten yolks of two eggs. Turn the hot mixture over the eggs, then return it to the double boiler and cook until it thickens. Remove from the heat, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Then set to chill. This makes a delicious and inexpensive dessert.

French Coffee Ice Cream

Make a pint of very strong coffee and strain it over the yolks of four well-beaten eggs. Add a cupful and a half of sugar and a half-teaspoonful of salt. Put into a double boiler and cook until thickened. It must be hot enough to thicken, but not boil. Remove the instant it is thickened and cool. When cool, add a pint of heavy cream and two teaspoonfuls of vanilla. Then strain into the freezer. When almost frozen add the stiffly beaten white of an egg.

Roman Pudding

Mix the crumbs of four stale macaroons, six chopped preserved chestnuts, four tablespoonfuls of cake crumbs, the same amount of sugar, four egg yolks and a hint of two eggs. Beat, then add a cupful and a half of cream, two teaspoonfuls of vanilla, a quarter cupful each of chopped raisins and candied peel. Pour into a mold, dust with crumbs, set in water and bake. Unmold and serve cold with whipped cream.

In the United States 11 girls in every 100 are married before they celebrate their nineteenth birthday. More than 20,000,000 women in the United States are employed in housekeeping.

Why Science Puts Health Before Wealth or Success

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City
U. S. Senator-Elect From New York State

AMONG the minor works of Blaise Pascal is a prayer, to ask of God the proper use of sickness. In this he says: "Yea, Lord, I confess that I have esteemed health a blessing, not because it is an easy means for serving thee with utility, for accomplishing more cares and vigils in thy service; but because by its aid I could abandon myself with less restraint to the abundance of the delights of life, and better relish fatal pleasures."

I do not agree with Pascal. I doubt if perfect health ever leads to loss of moral restraint, or tends to "fatal pleasures."

Many, if not most, of the appetites for such pleasures are founded on perversions of health. We are not likely to be conscious of any part of the body until it is congested and disturbed.

The latest advances in the treatment of brain disorders indicate that infection of some organ remote from the head is responsible for the mental aberration. In many instances the disturbance may be so slight as not to be recognized, but yet be sufficient to drive the victim out of his accustomed path of moral rectitude.

The appearance of health is not sufficient. It must be health founded on normal function of normal organs. Otherwise there may be such tendencies as Pascal becomes.

Nothing is more deceptive than the superficial aspects of health. If you are familiar with the real evidences, for instance, of tuberculosis, you may be misled. Visit one of the many splendid tuberculosis sanitariums or camps in North America and you will see bright-eyed, tanned and red-cheeked boys and girls, who will appear to the layman as perfectly healthy and normal persons. Pascal may have been deceived, as you would be, by such outward signs of health.

The proper use of sickness, as I see it, is to do the best one can to overcome it, and, with God's help, to be restored to health. I should never seek sickness as a means of escaping temptation, because, as I have indicated, I do not believe perfect health is capable of leading to a desire for fatal pleasures.

If I were a preacher I should first proclaim the gospel of good health. For I would know that when my congregation had been restored to physical normality, it would not be difficult to lead them into the ways of pleasantness and the paths of peace.

Hunger of stomach and the abnormal yearnings and appeals of other organs, are due to neglect of simple rules of wisdom.

Give us good health first, then everything else that is good will be added to our heritage.

Farmer Brown's Boy and Jumper Get Acquainted

By Thornton W. Burgess

'Tis sometimes well to find we must Put faith in those we fear to trust.
—Jumper the Hare.

WHEN Jumper the Hare darted in at the open door of Farmer Brown's sugar house he gave no thought to what might be inside. It looked dark in there, and he had a feeling that it might give him a hiding place from Reddy Fox, who was almost at his heels. He had no real reason for feeling that Reddy would hesitate to enter there, but he did feel so. In this he was right. Even had Farmer Brown's Boy not been there, Reddy would have hesitated to go into that house. You see Reddy is always suspecting a trap.

So great was Jumper's fear of Reddy that he ran right over the feet of Farmer Brown's Boy without even knowing it. It wasn't until he had crouched in the darkest corner that he saw Farmer Brown's Boy at all. Then his heart jumped right up in his throat. Anyway, that is the way it seemed. He knew that he was safe from Reddy Fox, but it seemed to him that he had escaped from one danger only to face another. He was sure of this when Farmer Brown's Boy closed the door. There was no escape then!

Poor Jumper! How his heart did thump! He shook all over with fright. With that door closed there was no escape. All his life he had depended on his long legs for safety. Here they would be of no use at all. He wished, he actually wished that he had remained outside, in spite of the fact that he had been so tired that he couldn't have run much further.

Now Farmer Brown's Boy understands the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows and their feelings. He went about his work in the little sugar house just as if Jumper were not there. He took great care not to go near that corner in which Jumper was crouching. He took care to make no sudden movements. As he worked he whistled softly. He seldom looked at Jumper, and when he did it was merely to glance that way. You see he was trying to make Jumper feel stopped shaking. He began to think that he hadn't been seen, and hope began to grow. He didn't move. No, indeed, he didn't move. He was too wise to do that. As his fright grew less, hope grew greater. Perhaps that door would be opened again, and he would have a chance to slip out.

After a long time Farmer Brown's Boy kept going a little nearer and a little nearer to that corner in which Jumper was crouching. It was only a very little nearer each time, hardly enough to be noticed. At last he sat down just a few feet from Jumper. Jumper's heart began to thump again. Still Farmer Brown's Boy took no notice of him, and gradually his heart stopped thumping.

Then Farmer Brown's Boy began to talk in a low, soothing voice. Very, very slowly he put out a hand toward Jumper. He didn't touch him, but simply held his hand there.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Are You Planning to Send Gifts to Your Friends This Easter?

EASTER gifts are becoming almost as important as Christmas gifts and are considered a good means of paying off little social obligations. During lenten days a good deal of time is given to sewing, and it is then that many young women make their Easter gifts.

Party bags make delightful gifts, and are not hard to make. Three widths of ribbon three inches wide and a half a yard long are closely cat-stitched together, and then seamed at the bottom and up the side. Then a double ribbon casing is fastened around the top, through which is run the draw-strings, and the top is finished with a ruffle of close white lace or a silk-embroidered flounce. Other bags made of rich silver or gold patterned ribbons in black or white are very attractive.

There is also quite a fad for embroidering parasol panels. The panels are done on chamois, silk and gingham. The latter are decorated in cross-stitch in quaint designs, and the gift usually includes the dress pattern from which the parasol is to be made. Sachets are also in order as gifts for girl friends, and they may be made for bureau drawers, for coat-frame sets or in separate bags to use as desired.

Perfumed hangers trimmed for silk gowns or evening gowns, which slip easily, are made of velvet, to which the flimsy things cling, and they are trimmed with chiffon or ribbon flowers. The closest sachet consists of two yards of one-inch-wide satin ribbon with six silk bags spaced along its length, and the ribbon is weighted at either end to hold it over the hooks. The bags, which hang down, are three inches wide and 16 inches long. One bag is suspended below the other, forming a new earring shown here today. This ornament hangs well down below the shoulder and when made of crystal or onyx or smethyst is almost too heavy for comfort.

LONDON.—The bodices of some dresses worn today are split in back from neck to waistline. Into the opening is inserted a bloused panel of brocade or of printed silk or chiffon. It makes the back of a gown as interesting as the front.

Hats and sunbonnets are being made in most alluring designs and materials. The marine hat for the sailor girl looks like an old "sou'-wester" with soft, high crown and soft, stitched brim. The hats are made of denim, and the under side is of the lighter shade of the material.

Sunbonnets are made of delicate colored organizes and dimities, trimmed with ruffles or quillings of white footings. Some have streamers at the back where the bonnets are shirred, edged with the footings, and these streamers are very dainty as they float down the back.

Dolly and napkin cases, tablecloth and napkin bands and linen rolls are also among the gifts exchanged. Breakfast and luncheon sets engage many nimble fingers, and are embroidered in ways that would make them very costly if bought at the shops.

The jade-green bolster pillow embroidered in black and silver is very popular for the day-bed or for the floor. The ends are finished with tassels of black velvet and silver. A favorite trimming for these pillows consists of bunches of black and green velvet grapes with silver leaves and stems.

Cases for wee lingerie pillows are being embroidered with Dresden china floral designs or Bohemian arabesque designs in colors. These ideas are new, but the more conservative prefer, instead, the all-white French embroidery.

FASHION NEWS NOTES

NEW YORK.—Three enormous balls, one below the other, form a new earring shown here today. This ornament hangs well down below the shoulder and when made of crystal or onyx or smethyst is almost too heavy for comfort.

LONDON.—The bodices of some dresses worn today are split in back from neck to waistline. Into the opening is inserted a bloused panel of brocade or of printed silk or chiffon. It makes the back of a gown as interesting as the front.

LONDON.—White kid gloves are seen today with black velvet gauntlets, the contrast has something quaint and infinitely rich about it.

The white glove is stitched with black, and the black gauntlet is embroidered with pearls or with steel beads.

LONDON.—Gowns of lame so striped as to appear at first glance to be accordion-pleated are among the spring novelties shown today. A gown of this sort in black lame striped with silver was especially beautiful.

NEW YORK.—Tuxedo sweaters in long-waisted effects are one of the thoughts for spring. Often they have sleeves different in shade from the rest of the sweater, though the sleeves may be matched by the border on the cuffs and the belt.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

What Lucretia Mott Did for the Cause of Freedom.

AFTER the war of 1812 prices were high in the United States, and living was very expensive. Business was bad. Among the many families who suffered reverses was a Philadelphia Quaker family by the name of Mott.

Mrs. Mott was not the type of woman to sit by and watch her husband struggling to make both ends meet and to see her family suffer on this account.

She had a splendid education. So she decided to do what she could to lessen the heavy burden under which her husband was struggling.

This energetic young woman had no trouble in finding a position as a school teacher. She taught her young pupils with loving enthusiasm until the time came when her husband was once more bringing in a comfortable income.

It was then that Lucretia Mott took up the study of theology.

So successful was she in this calling that at the age of 25 she was enrolled as an ordained preacher of the Society of Friends.

This gave her a great opportunity to plead for the cause of antislavery, in which she was vitally interested. She went up and down the country preaching against it, and doing all in her power to stir up resentment and definite action against this uncivilized institution.

Lucretia Mott's whole code of feeling and her unselfish effort was completely expressed when she said: "The millions of downtrodden slaves in our land being the greatest sufferers, the most oppressed class, I felt bound to plead their cause in season and out of season to endeavor to put myself in their souls' stead and to aid all in my power, in every right effort for their immediate emancipation."

And this Lucretia Mott did to the fullest. She preached against slavery while missiles were hurled through the windows. She sat calmly in her house when a mob threatened to burn it down, and was diverted from this barbarous act by a young man who intentionally turned them into another street.

Lucretia Mott was literally worshipped by the colored people. They called her "the Black Man's Goddess of Liberty."

In a quiet little Friends' burying ground at Philadelphia lies Lucretia Mott. She died in 1880, after giving the very best of her strength and life to the cause which finally removed a stain from the honor of the land she loved.

GRAPEFRUIT JELLY

WASH and peel the fruit. Then weigh the fruit and cut it into small pieces. Place it in a kettle and for each pound of grapefruit add two pounds of water; boil until it thoroughly disintegrates. Pour the mass into a flannel jelly bag and press until no more juice can be extracted. Drain this juice again through a clean flannel bag without pressing. Pour this juice into a kettle. Bring to a boil. Add three-quarters of a pound of sugar for each pound of fruit. This is boiled until it has reached the jelling point, which is indicated by the flaking or sheeting from the spoon. Pour the jelly into hot glasses. Allow the glasses to cool and cover them with paraffin.

THE DETOUR IN THE BRIDAL PATH.

A young couple, on their honeymoon, spent two days in a small Southern city. When they got off the train an old negro man, who served as porter, runner, chief bellboy and general factotum for the principal hotel granted them at the depot. He took charge of their hand baggage and led the way for them to an ancient vehicle.

As he drove them along the street the young husband took him into their confidence:

"Now, look here, uncle," he said, "we don't want anybody here to know that we've been married. Probably some of the other guests will speak to you about us and we count on you to throw them off the track and help us keep our secret."

"Boss," said the old man, "don't you an' the young lady worry. Jest trust me. Ain't nobody goin' fin' out by axin' me questions."

But when the pair came down from their room that evening for supper, they found themselves a target for the interested stares of everyone also in the dining room. All eyes were turned in their direction. At the conclusion of a somewhat hurried and decidedly embarrassing meal, the young man hustled up the old negro.

"Folks," he demanded, "I thought you promised not to give us away, and you everybody around this hotel is looking at us and grinning."

"Boss," said the old negro, fervently, "ef dey's learned the truff, dey didn't none of 'em learn it from me—now, sub!"

"Well, did anybody speak to you about us after we had registered?"

"Yas, sub; severl'."

"Did any of them want to know whether we were on our wedding trip?"

"Yas, sub, they did."

"Well, what did you say to them?"

"I sez to 'em: 'Now, indeed, them young folks ain't no bridal couple—they's just a couple of chums.'"

the original Standard Oil of New Jersey stock. Dissolution of course meant his pro-rata share in various units was the same as in the original company.

Since then, there have been reports from time to time that his holdings have been distributed to his son, his daughter, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, the Rockefeller Foundation, General Education Board, Laura Spillman Rockefeller Memorial or the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research who appear as the largest stockholders.

"Mar Want to 'Die Four.'"
The realization of the transfer of these vast holdings was never driven home so thoroughly as when yesterday Dow, Jones & Co. announced
the son's ownership of Standard Oil stock. Then it was that observers asked if the senior Rockefeller was taking Andrew Carnegie as a model
in his ambition to "die poor."

There were some who professed to see in the transfer to the hands of the son and other members of the family, a desire on the part of the elder Rockefeller, which might be otherwise shared, to have his heirs escape the payment of the inheritance taxes.

At current market prices, the younger Rockefeller's holdings in these companies are worth $410-674,399. Dividend payments at present rates total $11,946,622 a year
on his holdings in these nine companies, or slightly less than a 3 per cent return on their market value.

Elder Rockefeller's Holdings.

The elder Rockefeller, founder of the Standard Oil group, does not own 1 per cent of the issue stock
of any of the Standard Oil companies according to testimony given to the Senate investigators. Walter Clark Teagle, president of the Standard Oil of New Jersey, said
John D. Sr. had not been a shareholder in that company since 1910.

The biggest holdings of John D.
Rockefeller Jr. are in Standard Oil
of California, of which he owns 24.4 per cent of issued stock, worth $164,129,949 and returning annual dividends of $3,804,302. Standard Oil of New York ranks second, his ownership of 2,241,008 shares, worth $102,605,259, being 24.2 per cent of the total issue.

In the Standard Oil of Indiana alone, the younger Rockefeller does not appear as a large stockholder.
The family's holdings in that company are smaller than in any of the large members of the group.

New Commercial Treaties Planned.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—State officials are working on drafts of new commercial treaties and arrangements which it is planned to negotiate with a number of countries created as a result of the war.
